Scores Of Officers In Man-

In Sensation

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 22.—One of the greatest man-hunts in the history of Georgia was in progress today as every available city and county officer sought Fred D. Fair and Sam Aiken, condemned murderers, who escaped from the supposedly invincible Fulton county tower here last night. Sawing away two cell bars, the doomed slayers climbed 20 feet down a rope made of blankets, raced across a wide courtyard, and scaled a 25-foot outer wall to gain freedom. The escape was discovered at 11 o'clock last night when a jailer went into the tower to lock the men in separate cells for the night.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Yesterday's rain was the heaviest that has fallen here for almost three months, close to three-quarters of an inch being recorded during the 24-hour period.

Perhaps it was just Pa New's imagination, but burned out grass spots seemed to have taken on a little color this morning, following yesterday's showers.

Four or five brilliant green and red tank cars were on the railroad tracks below the viaduct Thursday afternoon. And after all, why aren't railroad cars decolorative?

Noticed a horse on S. Mill street tied to a telephone pole by a string? The old dobbie stood very meekly and evidently thought himself very securely tied.

Pa New observed two elephants in S. Mill street window—two elephants of course. On a placard was the name of a newly organized club, "The Elephant club."

Mrs. D. S. Badger, North Beaver street, reported to Pa New this morning that, during the rain storm of Thursday evening, she had seen three deer on the Colonial Ball field; there were two large ones and a fawn. She watched them for some time and then they scampered off through the rain toward Wilmington avenue.

Last night's rains caused the fishing worms to come to the surface, and several prospective fishermen were noticed out with flashlights gathering night crawlers during the late evening hours. Night the absence of the greater part of the summer, because there has been no moisture to bring them to the surface of the ground.

According to reports of auto club members who are taking part in the A. B. C. campaign, two instances of motorists driving through railroad warning signals were observed Thursday.

In front of the postoffice on Mercer street Thursday afternoon, Pa New saw an automobile with a Nebraska license plate, and right next to it was another automobile with a West Virginia license plate.

Pa New recently saw a queer colored plate on an automobile and, upon drawing closer, saw that it was a Havana license. That car had certainly strayed far from home. Yesterday afternoon Pa New saw a Nebraska license on a car on East North street.

Rain; And Lack Of It; Bring Unique Incidents

(International News Service)
WATER
For weeks, sun-drenched Pennsylvanians found the cooling word pervading their inner consciousness. And when water came, in the form of rain, it was accompanied curiously enough by three unique incidents in which water, or the lack of it, figured largely.
Mahoning creek at Mosgrove, near Kittanning, has fallen so low that a baseball diamond has been laid and games are being played in the river bed.
A farmer at Clarksburg, W. Va., drained a swamp and obtained a "few" turtles—exactly five wagon loads of the hard-shelled denizens of the deep.
A police emergency squad, responding to an excitedly telephoned burglar alarm in Pittsburgh, discovered the noise made by "burglars" to have been the chattering of water in an instantaneous hot water system.

Of Girl In Plot

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Contents of the most important of Jack Zuta's safe deposit boxes were made public today, revealing that the slain gang chief had trafficking with additional scores of men in high political position and public esteem.
The newly exposed records of receipts, disbursements and bribes show Zuta and his partners, George "Bugs" Moran and Joe Aiello, conducted a vice liquor gambling business that brought in $16,000,000 a year.

Among those revealed to have received checks from the gang leader were Nate De Lue, assistant business manager for the Chicago board of education; attorney Simon Herr, and Paul W. Rothenberg, republican ward committeeman. These names were added to a list of more than a score of politicians, lawyers, policemen and legislators already revealed as having received checks from the gang leader.

Zuta's records also yielded telegrams and letters which tend to show an attempt was planned to influence Gov. Carlson of Florida in appointing a judge of the criminal court and a criminal prosecutor.

An effort was also made to interview attorney general Fred H. Davis of Florida, according to the telegrams. Prosecutors interpreted the negotiations as evidence that the Zuta syndicate had begun preparations for some large operation in Florida, and that a member of the Aiello-Zuta-Moran gang was in criminal difficulties.

Among Zuta's records was found a list of the republican leaders who in 1926 were members of the republican central committee from eight country districts. There was nothing to indicate any connection between (Continued On Page Two)

STRANGE PLANE OVER CITY

Autogyro With Overhead Propeller Circles Over New Castle Enroute To Chicago

New Castle and Lawrence County people who chanced to note the strange airplane that passed over the county, circling over New Castle enroute, Thursday afternoon, will be interested to learn that what was known as an Autogyro, with overhead propeller, and was enroute to the Chicago air races.
There were two of this type of planes when the start was made for Chicago, but one of them damaged in landing at the Butler airport, and the one seen here continued alone on the flight to Chicago.
The plane that was seen over this city was the Cierva Autogyro machine of C. J. Faulkner. It started out for Chicago, accompanied by a plane of similar type, and operated by J. P. Lukens. They were enroute from Philadelphia.
When the Butler airport was reached Lukens' plane was damaged in landing and Faulkner continued the flight to Chicago, flying over New Castle he circled over Bradford field.
The plane had a four-blade overhead propeller. Two regular type planes accompanied the Autogyro over New Castle.
Lukens' damaged craft was dismantled and shipped back to the plant of the Pittcairn-Cierva Autogyro company of America at Philadelphia for repairs.
The Auto-Gyro ships are experimental and are constructed on patients held by Juan De La Cierva, Spanish inventor, who exhibited his "windmill" type craft in Philadelphia last year.

CAMANCHE, Iowa, Aug. 22.—In the attic of a picturesque home in this quaint Iowa town on the muddy Mississippi rests a rusty old sword.
Long ago it glinted and gleamed through the smoke of battle inspiring brave fighting men in a lost cause. Then, one day, this lightning-like strip of flashing steel passed into other hands. For decades afterward it slumbered in its dented, weather-beaten scabbard. Now it is unsheathed, revealing one of those "65 years after" war stories to which some reader may help contribute a happy ending.
Back in the '60s, Henry Muhs and his younger brother, Peter still in his teens, marched stout-heartedly away from this village as members of the Eighth Iowa Infantry Company A. (Continued On Page Two)

Council will be called upon in the not far future to meet with officials of the Pennsylvania-Ohio Coach Lines and various other bus operators to arrange a terminal for busses. It was intimated today in city council session.
This developed after Councilman Burns had informed council that Harmony route busses were "double parking" to load and unload passengers and he said they should be required to load and unload "back of their station."
Councilman Genkinger advised against this as it would appear the city was "rubbing it into the company."

Hang Giant Negro At Wilmington

Woman

(International News Service)
WILMINGTON, Del. Aug. 22.—Theodore Russ, giant six-foot 200 pound Negro, was hanged on the gallows of the New Castle county workhouse a few miles south of here at 11:12 a. m. today for a criminal attack on a white woman. He exhibited little alarm and calmly mounted the gallows' steps without assistance. Russ was convicted of assaulting Mrs. Mary Reed, a diminutive Kent county farmer's wife on February 24th last. He was granted a reprieve by Governor C. D. Buck when members of his race asked for more time to secure evidence for a new trial but when no additional evidence was forthcoming the execution was ordered for today.

New Castle Given Another Fine Boost As Convention City

Fame of this city as a convention city is growing rapidly and it was greatly added to by the manner in which the visiting Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters were treated during the present week.
There were expressions of appreciation heard on every side from delegates and visitors at the convention for the city's facilities and of the wonderful manner in which everything was provided for the visitors and the hospitality that was extended them on every side and the apparent effort made to please them.
In this connection it might be said that the city was just as pleased with the visitors, for there has never been a convention here that carried on in a more commendable manner. The visitors were not adverse to stating their opinion of the city and the convention.
C. W. T. Robinson of Philadelphia, who has been in attendance at many conventions in many cities, said as he was leaving: "It was a wonderful convention and New Castle is a great convention city. I have attended many conventions in many cities, but nowhere has the committee done such excellent work as here. I was never any place where a committee or the people of the city tried harder to please the visiting delegates or did more for their entertainment and pleasure."
Edward O'Neill of Philadelphia, a veteran in attendance at Knights of Pythias conventions and an official of the Pennsylvania R. R., said: "Everything was fine and you treated us wonderfully. I did not have much opportunity of seeing your city because of the finance committee of the convention, but we certainly did enjoy your (Continued On Page Two)

SHARON CEREMONY

Aboard his private railroad car Vice President Charles Curtis and an accompanying party of distinguished government officials will pass through the city over the Pennsylvania line Saturday morning at 10:26, standard time, enroute to the Sharon homecoming celebration for Secretary J. S. Davis.
Railroad offices today announced that the private coach would be attached to No. 415, regular Pittsburgh-to Erie passenger train.
Word from Sharon today was that elaborate arrangements are complete for the reception of honor guests. The ceremonies will mark the formal notification of Secretary Davis of his choice by the Republican party for United States senator.
On board the vice president's car with Mr. Curtis will be Secretary Davis himself. Whether or not Senator David A. Reed will accompany them is not known, but it is thought that he will. A delegation of railroad officials may also be aboard.
During the day's celebration the private car will stand close by the Sharon depot in readiness for the return trip to the capital. The car will be attached to a regular train leaving Sharon about 10 p. m. and will again pass through New Castle a short time after.

Bodies Of Three Explorers Found In Arctic Region

Norwegian Hunters Find
Bodies Of Explorers
Missing Since 1897

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 22.—The icy grip of the Arctic loosed a 33-year hold today and gave up the bodies of three daring adventurers, lost in an ill-starred attempt to fly across the North Pole in 1897.
A Central News dispatch from Oslo reported that a group of Norwegian hunters, penetrating the uncharted wastes of Franz Josef land in search of game, stumbled across the tattered remains of Solomon August Andree, long lost Swedish engineer, and two companions who left Spitzbergen in 1897 on an attempt to cross the pole in a free balloon.
The bodies, identified by shreds of clothing preserved by the frigid air of the Arctic, as well as documents and diaries which withstood the ravages of time and the elements, were located in the shambles of a temporary camp apparently established by the adventurers after their balloon made a forced descent hundreds of miles from the nearest outpost of civilization.

Discover Andree Camp

A dispatch from Stockholm said that the party that discovered the bodies was headed by the Norwegian explorer, Doctor Horn. The Andree camp was discovered on August 6. The dispatch said that the camp had been despoiled by bears. The bodies of the three men are now enroute to Sweden.
Few details of the discovery have been received, but the Oslo dispatch reported Andree's own diary had been found. Of the notes which must have detailed a tragic account of the adventures' struggle against inevitable (Continued On Page Two)

Some Observers Forecast
Philadelphia Vote Will

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22.—Philadelphia—the rock-ribbed citadel of Republicanism in Pennsylvania—is the lone doubtful spot in the state today in the campaign for the election of Gifford Pinchot, the successful gubernatorial nominee.
Pinchot, friend and foe alike, conceded, will receive the majority of the votes cast in every other of the 67 counties of the state. But upon the size of his vote here, many political observers believe, will depend whether or not he will again go back to Harrisburg as the highest officer of the commonwealth.
Situation Uncertain
Frankly casting about for every conceivable means to swing the vote of the disgruntled G. O. P. chieftains in Philadelphia his way, John J. Hemphill, wet Democratic and liberal party candidate, is making a serious effort to win Philadelphia, and the city has already become the center (Continued On Page Two)

When I step into the talkies, just to pass some time, I mean, I ought to have the privilege of looking at the screen, and hearing what the characters are saying in the show, but such is not the case at all, for every time I go, I get a seat right next to folks who follow all the lines and read them out and this I think transcends a lot of crimes. Oh would some trusty, genius, invent a gadget strong, to muzzle folks who talk out loud, when plays are going strong, and then perhaps we'd have some peace, in talking picture plays, and not be bothered with the tik, tik, seventy two today.

James M. McDewitt Visits Dead Brother; Stricken Himself

Francis McDewitt Dies In Youngstown Thursday And James About Twelve Hours Later

Sorrow has visited the McDewitt family of this city doubly today in the deaths of Francis McDewitt, aged 55, who died Thursday at 10 p. m. in the Youngstown City hospital, after a short illness and in the death this morning at 10:30 of James M. McDewitt, aged 71, 302 East Home St. The body of Francis McDewitt had been brought from Youngstown to the home of his brother, Joseph, 501 Ober street and this morning James M. McDewitt, who has not been in the best of health for some time, went to the home of his brother to see Francis. He viewed the body and had returned to his own home, sat down in a chair and talked a few minutes to some of his family, when suddenly he dropped in his chair, and when medical aid was summoned it was found he had died instantly. The shock of his brother's death was too much for a weak heart.

James McDewitt is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jose McDewitt, three sons, Joseph and James of New Castle, Jack of Pittsburgh and he is both survived by a brother Joseph, of this city and three sisters Mrs. Clarence Hockenberry, Mrs. Thomas Valley and Mrs. O. Shaw, all of New Castle. They were both members of St. Mary's church and James was one of the oldest members of the A. O. H. in the city.

Funeral services for Francis McDewitt will be held from St. Mary's church Saturday morning at 10 o'clock and the funeral of James will be held Monday morning.

Several postal cards, letters and messages of greeting were also found in this lot was a business card of Frank Yale, slain New York gangster who was presumably a friend of Zuta. The card represents Yale as having been in the cigar manufacturing business.

That Zuta wielded a power in police circles was revealed by a three page police statement detailing the confession of a girl who admitted a plot to kidnap Zuta and hold him for $50,000 ransom.

Soon after Zuta obtained the statement both Joe Genaro and Thomas Volpe, gangsters whom the girl implicated in the plot, were shot and seriously wounded.

THE TOWN of Chincok was doing some construction work on Main street. An excavation had been made of quite some depth and width, but the whistle blew and the construction gang quit work for the day, and for some reason the gang boss forgot to erect barriers around the excavation. Nor did he hang up red lanterns to provide for the safety of those driving or walking on the street.

In a house which fronted on the excavation a special constable had just arrested a prisoner for whom he had a warrant. Taking the prisoner by the arm, the constable decided to cross the street near the excavation. The prisoner saw the constable and, grasping the constable bodily in his arms, the prisoner threw him into the excavation and escaped.

Not only did the constable lose a prisoner, but he was also considerably bruised. He therefore filed suit against the town of Chincok for damages.

How would you decide this case? Make up your mind before you read the decision.

NEW CASTLE GIVEN ANOTHER FINE BOOST AS CONVENTION CITY

hospitality. The grand chancellors banquet on Monday night was the smoothest, best managed and most enjoyable event of the kind I ever attended. Your Cathedral is magnificent.

"I have been in many cities attending conventions but I have never found such a spirit of harmony and good fellowship among those entertaining the conventions as I have found here and I certainly felt at home."

"Your city should be proud of C. W. Herman Hess, the retiring grand chancellor, who is a hustler, and who visited every county in the state in the past year in which there is a K. of P. lodge."

"He is a strong character, a splendid talker and a diplomat and should go far in the affairs of this life."

A. B. Hess of Mechanicsburg, the new grand vice chancellor, said that this convention was fine and that it was one of the best of the many that he had attended.

H. G. Bond of New Freedom, Pa., said that socially it was the best convention of the Knights of Pythias he had ever attended and the functioning of the grand lodge was equal to any that he had ever attended.

LeRoy F. Huber of York, a new member of the Grand Tribunal of the Knights of Pythias, said that the convention was magnificent and that he had a fine time. He said that he had the best time that he had ever had at any of the K. of P. conventions, and that he had attended many of them.

C. S. Nagle, grand outer guard, said that while he was from this section of the state, that he had talked to many of the delegates from Philadelphia and the eastern part of the state and all expressed the sentiment that they had never been so wonderfully entertained before in the history of the organization.

DAILY GOOD TURN

"I got some water for men running a steam shovel, and also took a baby boy back to his mother."

"I chased a mean dog out of our neighborhood. It was a strange one and wasn't getting along with the people."

It's part of the code of a Boy Scout to do a good turn daily. Above is a list of a few of the good turns reported by local scouts, picked out of a large number, which indicate just what the scouts are doing in the way of helping others.

Every day the scouts are at it, and the list given here is only a small sample of a wide variety of the deeds the boys are executing daily.

Conventions, the kind our city played host to this week, offer plenty of opportunity for such, and the scouts know it. Scores of boys of different New Castle troops did their bit to make things pleasant for the visitors.

Carrying suitcases and handbags from railroad stations to hotels, paging the convention quarters for persons wanted elsewhere, guiding delegates to places of interest in the city and directing others to certain places they wanted to go, were only a few of the good turns the scouts performed.

Scout Executive Herbert G. Horton remarked today that not only during convention time do the boys contribute assistance, but also to their neighbors at home. Each scout is supposed to give some help daily, and then report it at the troop meeting.

Most amusing are some of the good turns told at meetings, the scout executive said. Nevertheless, the doing of the act is proof enough that the boys want to help somebody.

PHILADELPHIA IS DOUBTFUL SPOT IN G. O. P. ELECTION of the Pinchot-Hemphill battle. He has been given secret support by many of the regular organization leaders here, but to date no open declarations have been made.

Neither has Pinchot been successful in obtaining an avowed declaration of the support of the William S. Vare faction here. Evasion and postponement of a declaration either way have been the answers to the pleas of Pinchot's lieutenants.

So serious has the situation become that General Edward C. Martin, state chairman, and A. Boyd Hamilton, his chief aide, will first try to harmonize affairs here before beginning active work in the state wide campaign. Hamilton is expected today to prepare the ground for a visit by Martin.

Meeting September 4

Nothing can be done here until the meeting of the City Republican committee on September 4, towards an open declaration for Pinchot is the ready reply of all organization chiefs to the pleaders for support of Pinchot and the entire G. O. P. ticket. But in the meantime word has reached the camp of the Pike County Forester that he is to be secretly "knifed" at the polls here and active steps have been taken to prevent that.

The first outward move came in the naming of 6000 registrars with express warning to them to prevent fraud and a notice of the punishment to be meted out by any registrar who himself perpetrates fraud. The next step is expected to result in the swearing out of numerous warrants for officials in the recent primary election. These warrants will be based on irregularities uncovered by the opening of hundreds of ballot boxes here in a recheck of the Brown and Pinchot vote by S. Davis Wilson, city campaign manager, for Pinchot.

Wets Work Hard

In the meantime, leaders of the association against the prohibition laws, have redoubled their activities in behalf of Hemphill. First, Charles Dorrance, of Scranton, was made chairman of the Liberal party when followed announcement of the appointment of Major Robert C. Miner, of Wilkes-Barre, as treasurer of the party. Hard on the heels of these developments came a bitter attack by John R. Collins, chairman of the Democratic state committee, upon Pinchot.

Using the former governor's own words namely: "Partly bought and partly stolen" used to describe the election of William S. Vare, Collins asserted the same statement applied to Pinchot's nomination. Collins also attacked William A. Schnader, deputy state attorney general, who was chief of counsel for Pinchot in the recent Supreme court hearing.

Vare With Curtis

Another puzzling turn was given the situation today when it was revealed that Vare and James M. Hazlett, chairman of the city committee, will be breakfast guests tomorrow morning in Pittsburgh with Vice-president Curtis. Curtis will open Secretary of Labor James J. Davis' campaign for senator at Sharon later in the day. While the Philadelphians apparently are going to aid in the inauguration of Davis' campaign, it is rumored, there are other motives behind their visit.

death, the only indication contained in the dispatch was that Andree had outlived his companions and had perished in incredible solitude days or weeks after his companions had succumbed from starvation, injuries or exposure.

Andree and his two companions took off from Dane's Island, Spitzbergen, in an especially constructed airship, which even in those days of conservative aeronautics was characterized as a "freak" affair. Depending solely upon wind currents, Andree hoped to be carried across the pole to the northernmost extremities of the American continent or Siberia.

His reported position of his camp indicated he had been blown far to the eastward, but whether he succeeded in crossing the top of the world before the vagaries of the wind carried him to his death will not be known until the diary has been fully studied.

Nothing was ever heard of the three men after their departure. The spot where their camp was found is far off the beaten Arctic track, and might have gone undiscovered perhaps forever if the hunters had not stumbled across it. Although much of the camp is believed to have been obliterated by time, the central news dispatch declared sufficient evidence was found to establish its identity and that its tragic occupants beyond doubt.

LEGION LIKELY TO PICK EASTON

also loomed large on the program. The convention committee was slated to report on a choice late today, and according to members, Easton will be recommended for next year's sessions. Easton has been making a strong bid for the 1931 gathering, and although Lancaster has been in the running it was unofficially reported that most of the committee has expressed a preference for holding the convention in Easton.

To Dedicate Bridge

Business sessions were to be finished in time for the first impressive highlight of the convention—dedication of the Soldiers and Sailors Memorial bridge.

Fighting men of the commonwealth will be the first formally to set foot upon the bridge.

A few minutes before the dedication ceremonies get under way, a group of Civil war veterans will be conducted across the long ramp of masonry, tribute to the fallen dead of all wars.

Then will come a monster parade of veterans of other wars, of regular and national guard troops, of American Legion members.

The dedicatory address will be made by Harford MacNider, of Iowa, U. S. minister to Canada and former National commander of the legion.

After the bridge dedication, the convention will be virtually over.

With the installation of new officers and official choice of a convention city, there will be left but odds and ends of business which will be gotten out of the way in short sessions tomorrow and after a parade of all legion delegates, the convention will be brought to an end.

THE RELATION OF WIND VELOCITY AND PRESSURE

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter.

Doubtless the reader has experienced a wind of considerable velocity, and has wondered just how much pressure it produced to the square foot. The relation between velocity and pressure has been determined, and here is the average value of the constant—0.005. The pressure equals the square of the velocity multiplied by .005. To illustrate: The wind velocity is 30 miles per hour. What is the pressure per square foot?

First multiply 30 by 30, which equals 900. Multiply 900 by the average constant .005, the result is 4.50 pounds per square foot. A 90-mile gale gives a wind pressure of 40.50 pounds per square foot.

They returned four years later, the former a brevet major and the latter a sergeant. Their experiences included fighting at Shiloh, capture, imprisonment for months in Andersonville, and exchange.

The Surrender

Rejoining their regiment, the Muhs brothers participated in the siege of Spanish Fort, Ala., near Mobile. After weeks of bitter fighting, the Union forces hurled a crushing assault against the fort. That was April 8, 1865, one day before Lee surrendered.

In the assault, Sgt. Peter Muhs fell severely wounded, but his brother, then a captain, carried on, and led four companies of Iowans into the battered fortifications.

The southerners, overwhelmed by superior numbers, capitulated, and Captain Muhs received the formal surrender—the sword—of the commanding Confederate officer.

The war ended, Captain Muhs brought his trophy of victory home with him, and stored it away with other mementoes of the historic intersection struggle. His own saber nestled in fraternal peace alongside that of the one-time enemy.

As time passed, Captain Muhs—"Uncle Cap" they called him in Canamache—frequently turned his memory back to that dramatic night in April, '65 when in the somber quiet that followed the roar and fury of incessant firing, his foe handed over a glistening sword—in token of surrender.

And "Uncle Cap" often wished he might again meet this former enemy and return him his sword. Captain Muhs never realized his wish.

Widow Still Hopes

Today, however, his white-haired widow, Mrs. Georgia Muhs, a beautiful, gentle 82 year old lady, hopes to fulfill her departed husband's wish. She desires to return the southern sword to the family or descendants of the commander of Spanish Fort.

"It was my husband's greatest wish and hope to return the sword personally to the Confederate officers," related Mrs. Muhs today. "We do not know the officer's name. Perhaps someone down south may know. I am sure his family or relatives would like the sword as a keepsake, and I would be very happy to return it to them."

Maybe some reader of this story can supply the desired information, and help bring to a joyous conclusion a stirring incident of the Civil war. Just write to Mrs. Georgia Muhs, Canamache, Iowa.

Mrs. Muhs lives a stone's throw from her 85 year old sister-in-law, Mrs. Dora Jane Muhs, widow of Sgt. Peter Muhs with two daughters, Mary and Roberta.

Harmony Co. Delays Giving Deed For Street

Await Action Of State Commission Councilmen Are Informed

City council in session at the city building today were informed by Solicitor White that he had been told by President David McCall, P. H. B. & N. C. Railway company that he cannot deliver a deed for their right of way to the city or give the city a bill of sale for their rails until the company receives permission to do so by the public service commission.

McCall also informed White that the company will not give the city poles and wire as they propose to keep and use it.

Solicitor White informed council that he had issued orders to the company to remove their poles and wires immediately.

White said the city can condemn the ground as it was to be a consideration for approximately $2,025 the company owes the city.

"They agreed to give it to us. They owe it to us. A board of viewers, in view of this, would probably say 'they agreed to give it to the city and it isn't worth anymore. We should have an ordinance condemning the land,' said White.

"I do not see why we cannot confiscate this as they abandoned their franchise," remarked Burns.

White interrupted to inform Burns that "they did not agree to give us the poles and wire."

He said he would prepare a condemnation ordinance.

Council followed with a resolution directing the city engineer and city electrician to cut the trolley wire where it enters the city.

The right of way referred to is a 30 foot strip running south from Butler avenue and the rails now occupy the right of way.

Operation of cars by the P. H. B. & N. C. has ceased and busses have taken their place and operate between the east end of the city and Diamond.

Britain Welcomes Newest Princess

Second Daughter Is Born To Duke And Duchess Of York

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 22.—A bulletin received today from Glamis castle where the Duke and Duchess of York gave birth to a daughter yesterday reported mother and child making fine progress.

"Her royal highness had a restful night and continues to make very satisfactory progress," the official message read. "The infant princess is doing fine."

The bulletin was signed by Sir Henry Simson and his conferees.

Welcomed By Nation.

GLAMIS, Scotland, Aug. 22.—Great Britain's newest princess, second child of the Duke and Duchess of York and fourth in line of succession to the British throne, born while a terrific storm drenched the ancestral seat of the Strathmores, was welcomed today by the high and the low of the nation alike.

The empire greeted the long expected little bundle announced by Home Secretary Clynnes shortly after 9 p. m. (4:23 p. m. Thursday eastern daylight time) with mixed feelings of relief and some disappointment, but Scotland itself rapturously hailed the second royal "bairn" to be born within its borders in the last 300 years.

"The latest got her bairn!" That magic message sped with uncanny haste through the vicinity and surrounding Scottish glens, augmenting the crowd gathered at Glamis castle by the score. Rain in streams sprayed the bleak walls of the historic castle and lightning flickered amidst a deafening thunder, painting a ghostly scene in the dark as the event was announced.

Hardy housewives and horny-handed Scotsmen, drenched to the skin accepted the news in simple manner of the countryside, praying briefly before the cattle gates and wading back to their homes after giving a lusty cheer.

At midnight the church bells in the vicinity and in north England pealed forth their rejoicing, but the downpour prevented lighting of the huge beacon atop Hupiers' hill until today or tomorrow. As soon as its flames leap forth, the villagers will assemble to feast on roast ox and drink beer provided in celebration of the occasion by the Earl of Strathmore father of the Duchess.

To wash knitted woolen garments, handle them gently, use lukewarm water, and lay them flat on towels to dry.

American Women Amazed At High Prices In Paris

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 22.—"Everything in Paris is so expensive," this is the most general cry that comes from visiting Americans this summer. And indeed the almighty dollar doesn't seem to go one-half as far as it used to, even though it brings twenty-five francs at any bank.

American women are amazed to find that the cheap but chic little dresses they can buy on every street corner in the United States are not to be had in Paris. Clothes that fit well must be bought at the good dressmaking houses or made by the clever little dressmaker who copies their styles. Those that are found at the big department stores do not have the good style of the cheap clothes bought in New York or Chicago. These latter are nearly always copies or adaptations of authentic French models—simplified, of course, and with the subtle details eliminated, but with the admirable skeleton of "good line" left intact.

Strange as it may seem, the French are not adept at copying their own products. They are creators, not copyists. Only the cleverest needleworkers can do it and then the price immediately mounts up far beyond the well-cut $15 frock found on the other side. Clothes in the big department stores are neither cheap nor chic and are bought only by the unwisely foreigner who cannot or will not wait to have something made and by poorly-dressed middle-class French women. The smartly-dressed ones ponder over a new frock for many days, usually select the best materials and then wait until they can be made.

French women, unlike their American cousins, really like to "get used" to a dress and enjoy it as a tried and trusted friend. "Buy 'em and scrap 'em" is not the rule here; quality, something that will last, is demanded at the most reasonable price.

Cat Proves Good Skunk Remover

(International News Service)
KELSO, Wash., Aug. 22.—A novel use for cats was demonstrated at the Weyerhaeuser Timber Company lumber camp on the South Tootle river east of here when the camp tabby successfully cleared the tent mess-house of a sizeable army of skunks. For two nights when meals were served to the night crews, the cook was visited by the polka-dot family which included cousins of faintest relations. Because the cook had no desire to start drastic outing methods and because his cook shack was a tent, the invaders walked right in and left at the leisure. The cook was at a loss how to rid the camp of the pesky invaders until tabby stalked into the tent at meal time one night.

Instantly the skunks made a dash for the cat, who, deciding that discretion was more praiseworthy than valor, dashed out with the skunks in hot pursuit. Now when skunks are callers at meal time, tabby is collared and thrown in their midst. The cook feels his problem is solved as long as the cats hold out.

Pointer Dog Proves Good Fish Catcher

(International News Service)
AUBURN, Cal., Aug. 22.—"Pat" a pointer dog owned by Jacob Crandell, local barber, is almost as good a fisherman as his master and the two form a combination against fish that is almost unbeatable.

Crandell, out fishing, caught a pike which flopped out of his basket and began "flip-flopping" about in the general direction of the stream. But Pat was on the job, hooked Mr. Pike by the tail and carried it back to the basket.

Pat goes to the post office every morning for Crandell's paper, but refuses to carry letters. He frequently runs across the street to a cigar stand and returns with a cigar, there being an understanding between the clerk and Crandell that whenever Pat appears his master wants a smoke.

Irate Wife "Raids" Pastor's Tabernacle

(International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Aug. 22.—Because the Rev. Carl Walker, evangelist, revivalist and faith-healer, demurred at paying alimony, his tabernacle, an improvised affair resembling a barn, is as bare as the innards of a bass drum.

Convinced that the F was sincere in his refusal to pay, Mrs. Walker, armed with a driver, raided the tabernacle, moved from it the furnishings and sundry other articles.

Besides the furniture in the living quarters of the tabernacle, an xylophone, two pianos, a motion picture projector and about 200 folding chairs were taken by the enraged Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Walker brought suit for divorce June 10 and was awarded temporary alimony of $50 a week. She charged that the Rev. Walker drank liquor, was cruel to her and associated with other women.

Dressmaking School Opened In Paris

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 22.—The high art of sewing has become a matter for educational authorities here, with the projected opening of a dressmaking school. This new institution of learning will be as important and gives as many major and side courses as the most technical engineering or art school. The professors will be specialists in their line, be it designing, cutting, fitting, trimming, or other complexities of the haute couture. Style history will be taught, and a complete library containing the widest array of works in connection with style and dressmaking will comprise a part of the new establishment.

"Correct Attitude" Produces Rainfall

(International News Service)
LAMESA, Texas, Aug. 22.—There hadn't been any rain in about two months and the sand was a foot deep in places, so Lamesa residents were startled and amused to read in the morning paper that a local firm offered a special sale of automobile mud chains.

There were few sales, but the merchants professed satisfaction. The very next day a torrential rain struck Lamesa, converting the sand into mud. "Which proves," said the merchant, "the value of advertising, not to mention the results one may achieve if one assumes the correct mental attitude."

Blind Baritone To Study Music Under Stephens

DENVER, Aug. 22.—Calvin Hendricks, 25-year-old blind baritone of Los Angeles, who won second place in a national radio vocal contest in New York City last year, is in Denver for the summer to study voice culture under Percy Rector Stephens, noted New York teacher.

Hendricks was given several lessons by the New York teacher after winning $3,000 and one year tuition in the vocal contest, and decided to continue his studies under the same tutelage.

After graduating from high school four years ago, the blind youth enrolled in vocal school and teachers assert his development was rapid. He has studied harmony and music theory and is a pianist of some attainment.

"Hendricks possesses an unusual talent," Stephens, who is conducting classes in Denver during the summer, said. "He will go far if he continues his present development. Not only does he sing very well, but he has written some very clever ballads."

Blind since birth, Hendricks "visualizes" through the sense of touch, memorizing each vocal composition he studies. His father sang as a young man, but has since given up the art.

Magpie Brings Woe To Mannequin

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 22.—A magpie has recently made trouble for a mannequin.

The latter, who happens to be a beautiful model in one of the shops of the rue de la Paix, decided to spend her Saturday afternoon on the banks of the Oise River, near Pontoise. While she was sitting there meditating and lingering her rings, along came a big magpie and snatched one away.

The mannequin, being a very modern young Parisienne, of course carried a little revolver in her bag and what is more, she is a perfect shot. In less than the time it takes to tell the story, the bird was a dead one, and at her feet with the ring still in his beak.

Unfortunately, two gendarmes heard the fatal shot and rushed to the spot, gently reminding the mannequin that the hunting season was closed. When the tribunal at Pontoise passed sentence by default on the model she was back at work in the run de la Paix again and had completely forgotten about her magpie. Two police officers called for her the other day and took her to jail awaiting judgment.

Great Britain To War On "Middleman"

(International News Service)
LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Labor Government is introducing the Agricultural Produce Marketing Bill into the House of Commons in order to stop profiteering in food prices.

Dr. Addison, Minister of Agriculture, is determined to control the activities of middlemen, who buy from the farmers at ruinous prices and unload on the consumer at prices yielding enormous profits.

In future, instead of the farmer sending his produce to market, and being compelled to accept whatever price the middlemen will give him, the Act will set up district selling organizations for the various classes of produce.

Farmers will have the opportunity of joining these organizations voluntarily, but if they fail to do so, the local organization will have power to compel them to come in.

The selling organizations will fix what it considers to be fair prices and on this basis will sell to the market dealers, whose profits will be strictly limited.

Refined sugar yesterday dropped to the lowest price "for all time," 4.44 cents a pound. Apples are cheap. Take apples not quite ripe, boil them, let the juice drip from a bag, then squeeze the bag. Make apple jelly, one cup of sugar to one cup of apple juice, and you will have through the winter an excellent nourishing and cheerful food for your children. That jelly, on bread with fresh butter under the jelly, is a food, almost complete, vitamins and all.

Jack Zuta, Chicago gangster, murdered by competitors—cash beneficiary of Chicago legislators, public officials and "reformers"—collected uncut diamonds. His theory was "They will always be good." Police say he had $150,000 worth of the precious stones hidden somewhere and are looking for them.

That's the other interesting piece of crime news.

The Pennsylvania Supreme court confirms Gifford Pinchot's nomination for governor on the Republican ticket.

This guarantees an interesting election in Pennsylvania, with at least one candidate honest and of high character.

A few of the "best minds" in Pennsylvania don't want Pinchot for governor, but will probably have to take him.

Byrd Ate Lightly At Pole; Crew Dropped Socks In Soup, Says Chef

(International News Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 22.—A few of the pantry secrets of Commander Richard E. Byrd, who has planted the American flag at both poles, have been disclosed here by George Tennant, the cook on the famous expedition to the barren wastes of ice and snow at the South Pole.

"Byrd was not a big eater," said the chef. "He drank weak tea and ate lightly."

Tenant said that the expedition used two tons of butter, two and one-half tons of bacon, two tons of ham, 100 cases of eggs, six tons of sugar, two and one-half tons of coffee, excluding all of the canned goods.

"I had to supply fresh meat for the boys," the 48-year-old master of culinary declared. "That was easy enough. All I had to do was walk out and hit a seal on the head."

"Most of the time it was about 70 degrees below zero and the boys didn't stay outside much. They were the most awful careless bunch I ever saw. Just like overgrown and sort of spoiled boys. They would take off their wet socks and hang them over the stove to dry. If I didn't watch them they would hang them right over the soup and think it was all right if one of them did fall in occasionally."

"We made a party of everyone's birthday, all holidays and the anniversary of Byrd's flight over the pole. I baked big fine cakes."

"When I landed back in New York, I was so glad that I bought four new suits a fine big meal of steak and onions—just to let somebody else do the cooking."

The chef also accompanied Byrd on the north pole expedition and Byrd ever starts out exploring again.

why, George will be there, according to himself.

Camp Season Ends Saturday

Saturday Is Last Day For Campers At Camp East Brook, The Y. W. C. A. Resort

Time is flying too fast for the crowd of girls at Camp East Brook, the Y. W. C. A. girls camp four miles from New Castle along the Neshannock river.

Tomorrow is the closing day for camp activities. And are the girls glad? They are not. It means to them that there will be no more songs sung around the glowing camp fire, no more smell of toasted marshmallows, sizzling strips of bacon and melting weiners, no more dips in the beautiful swimming pool, no more hikes in the surrounding woods.

An end must come to everything and the end of the season will come to Camp East Brook tomorrow.

But the girls have certainly been enjoying life, this past week. There have been all sorts of special activities, programs, minstrel shows, parties, etc., and not one minute has been a dull one at the camp.

A regular program of recreation is carried out each day, varying with special events. The girls rise early, exercise, have breakfast, clean up rooms, indulge in sports, have dinner, more sports, rest, hair, swimming, supper, recreation, camp fire, evening program and thence to bed.

There have been moonlight dips, over night hikes, and astronomy classes plus dozens of other activities.

The camp has been filled to capacity practically every day since it was opened. Miss Dorothy Stewart, health recreation secretary of the Y. W. C. A. has been supervisor of activities, with a staff of counselors.

City To Remedy Sidewalk Situation

Croton Avenue Hill To Get New Sidewalk And Guard Rail

Apparently council is finished dallying with the Croton avenue hill sidewalk situation. After a discussion today in city hall Councilman L. C. Genkinger issued instructions to the city engineer to prepare plans and specifications for a sidewalk and a guard-rail. The cost will be charged against the property-owner. Councilman Reeves stated that the sidewalk between the P. R. R. and top of Croton avenue hill was in a dangerous condition. Solicitor White said that if repairs were not made the city would be primarily liable. Genkinger followed White's remarks with orders to the city engineer.

Doctors Study 5-Year-Old Girl Who Slew Chum

(International News Service)
DENVER, Aug. 22.—Aid of Denver psychiatrists will probably be enlisted to straighten out the entangled sense of right and wrong of Gloria Utter, Colorado's five-year-old "elf" slayer.

The tiny miss created a profound social problem in Colorado recently when she shot and killed her six-year-old playmate, Rose May Ethridge, at Logantown, a suburb of Denver.

"She stole my rag doll—So I killed her." This was the frank confession that the child gave Logantown officials when they questioned her concerning her act—which left her as unmoved as the most seasoned Chicago gunman.

Joe E. Stone, district attorney of the Logantown district, refused to take any steps to punish the child, with the exception of urging her parents to place her in the state psychopathic hospital, where she might be observed and perhaps have some fundamental sense of social obligation established in her mind. Officials are of the belief that "with the brand of Caine upon her brow, her punishment in later years will be greater than any which the law might inflict."

Stone is powerless to have the girl placed in the psychopathic hospital against her parents' wishes as such action would necessitate a court declaring her so incorrigible that she would be a state dependant.

Gloria found the .22 calibre rifle with which she murdered her playmate in her father's garage. As a result, the girl's father, Rowell Utter has been the target for a volley of criticism for leaving loaded firearms within the reach of such a young child.

Placing any dangerous weapon available for possession by a child of immature years borders on criminal negligence," according to Stone who declares also that "blame lies not so much with the child as with the person or persons who made the crime possible. Thus far the girl's parents have declared that the gun was not loaded when it was placed in the garage where Gloria found it when she carried out her threat.

Police officials have been unable to gain much information from Gloria, save that she deemed it just to take the law into her own hands and settle accounts for the stolen rag doll. Efforts to clear up the matter by questioning Gloria have succeeded in nothing more than making her tale a jumbled array of inconsistent facts.

The murder of the Ethridge girl was due for a heated debate among Colorado psychiatrists as to just what motive prompted the crime. A large number are of the belief that the girl was merely following a primitive instinct that is common to us all in early life while others are of the opinion that moving pictures of shooting arrays, blighted honor, etc., furnished the environment necessary to account satisfaction for such an act of violence.

New England May Import Texas Steers

(International News Service)
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 22.—Experiments are now being conducted at Connecticut Agricultural College in Storrs, Conn., to determine whether or not Texas steers can be imported into New England, fed and marketed at a profit, thereby assisting in the new economic program of New England agriculture.

Thirty-eight, two-year old, dehorned Hereford Texas steers, are now being fed at the college a ration of corn, cotton-seed meal, molasses, oat feed and hay.

A carload lot of these steers will be on exhibition at the Eastern States Exposition in September.

The purpose of this experiment is to determine the adaptability of southwest Texas steers to Connecticut and New England climatic conditions, acceptability of such steers to Connecticut and New England farmers, the feeding of such steers with "basic" feeds, which any New England farmer can either grow, such as corn and hay, or buy at basic prices in bulk as water borne feeds such as cotton seed meal and molasses and the dressing out of steers so fed to per cents.

Parisians Poor Poetry Writers

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 22.—Parisians are not poets, think the forty immortals of the celebrated Academie Française. The three hundred and more contributors sent in by as many poets for the contest on "Youth" were so mediocre that the Academy decided to offer no prize at all and have postponed the concours until next year which may be a better one, they believe, for making verses. The contestants claimed that the subject was not one to inspire genius.

Heron Runs Afoul Of Live Wire; Dies

(International News Service)
PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 22.—A tall lanky blue heron flapping his way homeward at the wee small hour of 2 a. m. came to grief in the dark when he fouled a hydro-electric line near Baby Island on the Ocean Beach Highway near South Bend, Wash. The bird, which measures 6 feet from tip to tip, was immediately electrocuted putting the line out of order temporarily. Its head was severed from the body by the electrical shocks.

Millionaire's Wealth May Be Used To Found Hobo College

(International News Service)
DENVER, Aug. 22.—If Barney Haughey, Denver single tax and old age pension campaigners, has his way Denver may become an international center for the education of hoboes.

Funds to finance a proposed hobo college here may be taken from the estate of the late James Eads How, millionaire "King of Hoboes."

ified by the famous "millionaire hobo" to go chiefly for "education of the unemployed." Haughey will propose part of this sum be devoted to obtaining passage of an old age pension bill for Colorado.

With other funds, he proposes to establish and perpetuate a local Hobo college.

Ingeborg How, divorced wife of the late millionaire eccentric, was granted a trust of nearly $500,000, spec-law" in the will. She is living in Los Angeles.

Holger How, a stepson and Louis How, a brother, each received "the sum of $5 in full from my estate."

Nicholas Klein of Cincinnati, and Herman Guhl of Chicago, will serve with Haughey as administrators of the estate of How, which is to be used "for the sole use and benefit of the workers of the world, especially for the education of the unemployed."

The local chapter of the International Brotherhood Welfare association, otherwise known as the World Hobo Society, founded by How, has passed a memorial resolution dedicated to their "gallant leader" and forwarded by Haughey to international headquarters in Cincinnati.

"The How estate may furnish funds necessary for classes in the cause and cure of unemployment, which we have wanted to conduct here for years," Haughey said.

"This would be known as the Denver Hobo College, but of course, that is not a dignified name."

"There are similar institutions in New York and Chicago. We could equal those if we get a sufficient amount of money."

Professor in the eight colleges and universities in Colorado would be employed to conduct regular classes for unemployed men, Haughey said.

Guest speakers would be brought from other sections of the country.

"Perhaps we could exchange with other Hobo colleges," Haughey said.

"That depends upon how much money could be placed in the fund for the local college."

Haughey said he conferred with How in Denver two weeks before the millionaire's death, when he was on his way East to organize new hobo units. At that time they discussed plans for bringing an old age pension before voters in Colorado, Haughey said.

"Perhaps part of the How estate," Haughey said, "will be devoted to help secure passage of this bill it would relieve much suffering and How spent his life for that purpose."

The bill would provide $30 monthly pensions to men and women over 65 who have lived in Colorado at least 15 years.

How inherited most of his wealth from his grandfather, who built the bridge across the Mississippi river at St. Louis. After graduating from Harvard University, he elected to lead the life of a hobo and for more than twenty years, it is said, he ate no meal which cost more than fifteen cents and wore only $5 suits of clothes.

W. Sterling is indicated by a statement showing that to the time the University ended its year last June, it had received a total of $22,050.974.62 from that source. The roll follows:

Sterling professorships, $7,685,540.83.
Sterling scholarships, $1,023,218.91.
University fellowships, $1,250,000.
Chemistry laboratory and school of medicine, and partial construction of laboratory, dormitories, Law school, and Graduate school, all bearing the Sterling name, $10,953,433.41.

Endowment for permanent maintenance of buildings, $1,136,781.43.

Yale Gives Out Treasure Chest Data

Lawrence County Now Has Hundred Miles Of Improved Roads

Approximately 95 miles of improved highway has been built in Lawrence county on the State Highway Department program since the good road improvement was inaugurated about fifteen years ago, outside of New Castle and Ellwood City.

Prior to that time, there were several short pieces of macadam road, stretching out from the city, which formed the nucleus of the present vast system, which connects every section of the county in its network.

The past year has been a record breaking one in the county, approximately ten and a half miles of road having been already completed by the state, with eight miles now under construction, and the contract let for another short stretch.

Maintenance Important

The new Wilmington road was the first concrete highway put down in the county, and since its completion, each year has seen mile after mile added, until now Lawrence county has as much improved highway as some of the small western states have throughout their entire length and breadth.

The work of maintaining this important system is under the direction of H. F. Lightner, Maintenance superintendent, who has both Lawrence and Mercer counties to look after.

Approximately 100 men are employed permanently at this task, forty of them in Lawrence county, making the rounds of the various roads when the weather is seasonable, filling up cracks, rebuilding embankments, keeping the grass cut along the side of the road, and then when winter approaches, erecting storm fences and cleaning off the snow.

In the neighborhood of 150 men or more have been given employment this summer on Lawrence county projects by the contractors who have charge of the work, so that the state highway system locally is an important industry, it will be seen.

Rain Ends Drouth In Lawrence County

Heaviest Downpour In Several Months Soaks District Last Evening

Prayers of Lawrence county farmers for rain and lots of it, were answered last evening, when one of the heaviest rains in several months fell, soaking up the parched ground and relieving conditions immensely.

The rain was a godsend to the farmers as farm crops were rapidly burning up. It saved the wheat crop and late potato crop from destruction, and will also hasten the ripening of farm produce.

Although Lawrence county was not as bad off as some other districts, rain was badly needed, the last rainfall that amounted to anything, having fallen on July 26, almost a month ago.

Siple Has Nursed Cold Since Trip

Byrd's Boy Scout, Who Visited Here, Handicapped In Speaking

Scout Paul Siple of Erie, Admiral Byrd's Boy Scout orderly on the recent South Pole expedition, who related to a New Castle audience not so long ago the experiences of that two-year trip, spoke with difficulty when he appeared before the Sandusky, O. Rotary club Thursday.

"I've had a cold most of the time since I came back," Paul said. "Down there no one ever had a cold. There's no chance for germs. They freeze to death."

Siple, with his father and mother, were guests of the Sandusky club, having gone there from Toledo where they visited relatives, after leaving Montpelier, Paul's birthplace. At the latter place Paul was honored in a homecoming celebration.

When Siple visited this city several thousand heard him speak at the Cathedral.

Author Rewrites Book Of Noted Opera

VIENNA, Aug. 22.—The famous Austrian author Frank Werfel is, by arrangement with the Vienna State Opera, re-writing the book of Verdi's "Don Carlos."

Frank Werfel's previous Verdi re-settings, "Forza del Destino" and "Simone Boccanegra," were most successful, and therefore the new "Don Carlos" is counted among the greatest Opera attractions of the coming season.

Werfel is working all three extant forms of "Don Carlos" into a unit consisting of a series of scenes undivided into acts.

Brotherly Quarrel Ends Up In Court

NEW CASTLE, England, Aug. 22.—After a little brotherly quarrel, Frank and John Harkins, both heavily bandaged, were brought before a judge at the local police-court here.

Frank, the elder brother, was charged with injuring his younger brother by throwing cups, plates, teapot, poker, a knife and a joiner's saw at him.

John, in his evidence, said that after his brother had attempted to murder him by strangulation, he lost his temper and hit him on the head with a morgan rattler—a leather strap loaded with lead.

The elder brother was remanded in jail.

Black Drowning Is Investigated

Formal Testimony Taking In Mystery Of Publisher Is Concluded

BELIEVE BLACK FELL OVER RAIL

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Testimony Thursday afternoon at the investigation by the United States Steamboat Service into the disappearance of Van Lear Black, newspaper publisher, internationally famous aviator and financier of Baltimore, who fell from his yacht Sabota, Monday night eighteen miles south of Ambrose Channel, Captain John N. Kelley, skipper of the yacht, declared that after Black toppled off the rail into the rolling sea a coast guard boat ignored his (Kelley's) request to whistle for assistance and aid in the search.

"While we were searching for Mr. Black flashlights were put on us three times," Kelley said. "I supposed they were coast guard boats."

Finally one of the coast guard vessels hailed us and asked me what I was doing with my flashlight. I told them I was looking for a man overboard and asked them if they would blow four whistles to summon assistance. But they simply snapped off their lights and faded out of the picture.

Kelley said that he didn't see the number on the coast guard boat.

The skipper said his millionaire master had appeared in good health and excellent spirits previous to his disappearance.

"He seemed elated over his sister in Baltimore having given birth to twins," Kelley testified. "He had just returned from a visit to her home in Newport."

Only two other witnesses were called at the inquiry, a formality followed in cases of accident at sea.

They were Allen W. Hay, engineer on the yacht, and Thomas L. Cardwell, steward.

They agreed with Captain Kelley that the drowning of Black was "purely an accident." They said that Black was in the habit of sitting on the rail and smoking a cigarette.

Kelley said that he had not seen Black after he boarded the yacht at 6:40 p. m. Monday night.

"Mr. Black's valet brought word to me when I was on the bridge at about ten o'clock that Mr. Black couldn't be found," testified Kelley. "I immediately conducted a personal search throughout the ship after stopping the engines. Then I retraced our course for the past hour, turning on the searchlights. I scanned every inch of water hoping I might see something—his hat—or something. We searched until the next day but it was no use."

"Can you give us any idea how a man could fall off the rail?" Inspector A. R. Chapman asked.

"He might have been flipped over by a jerk of the ship," said Kelley. "The ship was rolling considerably. The rail was about three and a half feet high."

The steward testified he had last seen Black when the latter left the dining room at 9:31 p. m.

A formal finding on the hearing will be made within three weeks.

NORMAL HEALTH RESTORED

Thanks Ten Herbs Medicine for Wonderful Relief

"For years my entire system was in a terrible state. My stomach was weak and food did not digest properly, but I felt bloated, causing gas which brought bloating and distress. My liver was sluggish, causing dizziness. I suffered from constipation, usually felt weak and without ambition. My dentist recommended Ten Herbs to me as a system cleaner. It was like a miracle how my general health improved after using Ten Herbs. It went right to the source of my trouble and restored a normal state of health. My stomach has been fine ever since. I feel stronger and full of ambition. Am glad to recommend Ten Herbs to other sufferers."—Mr. Peter Gosselin, 23 E. Hooker St., Springfield, Mass.

Gerard Adds To "Fifty-Nine" List

Two Bankers, Two Labor Leaders, And Public Utility Head Are Included

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—While educators and financiers today continued to display intense interest in the group of 59 "men who rule the United States" as selected by James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, five new names were added to the list today by Gerard. They were those of two bankers, two labor leaders and a public utility officer.

The former diplomat said he believed the names of Sidney Z. Mitchell, Walter Edwin Frew, A. P. Giannini, William Green and Mathew Woll should be included in the list of those "who by virtue of their ability" and because of their influential positions and finances direct the destiny of the nation.

Mitchell is chairman of the board of the Electric Bond & Share company. Frew is chairman of the board of the Corn Exchange Bank & Trust company and Giannini is the founder of the Bank of Italy and Transamerica corporation, the world's largest holding company of bank securities. Green and Woll are the president and vice president respectively of the American Federation of Labor.

AIMEE'S MOTHER TO SHUN TEMPLE

Says She May Return To Aimee's Side If Scheming Clique Is Ousted

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Aug. 22.—With the latest row between Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, at the simmering point today, after a controversy which reached a certain temperature, they were agreed upon one thing.

Henceforth Mrs. Kennedy will not concern herself with the affairs of Angelus Temple. She stated she would not go back ever. "If they gave her the place,"

She left the door slightly ajar, however, when she modified the pronouncement by declaring "Well, if the time comes when that scheming clique is ousted, and if Aimee needs me, then I would do what I could to help."

Golfers Lose Truck And Complications Follow In Wake Of Golfing Trip

There's a joke going the rounds among the golfers of the city regarding three young men who would be golfing on last Sunday morning. Arrangements were made the previous day and according to schedule the plans were carried out and this is what happened.

The agreement was to meet at a young married man's house on the North Hill. The one of the group who was to convey them to the golf course was detained a little bit.

In the meantime another member of the group made the trip to the north hill in a truck and parked it right in front of the home. Along came the member of the party that was to take them to the golf course and all got in and hied away to the course.

A little later the good wife of the north hill man got up and looking out saw the truck parked in front of the place and not knowing to whom it belonged, called the police, who had it removed to a garage.

When the game of golf was over the man returned and the owner of the truck found it missing. It was finally located through the police.

City Takes Out Public Liability At "Mun" Course

Council today in session at City Hall took out public liability insurance on the municipal golf course by a vote of four to one. The policy cost $100.

The caddies, several of whom have already been injured, come under the provisions of the workmen's compensation agreement.

Burns, after hearing White's opinion, voted negatively.

"We haven't heard of any offers yet."

"I don't see any use'n doin' it 'less I can make sumpin' outta it, do you?"

"Bares" In The Mountains Excite Biarritz Gendarmerie

By RUTH JANE WILLIAMS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BIARRITZ, Aug. 22.—A bare went over the mountain—a bare went over a mountain—

Only in this case there were five bares, each bare behind another bare.

They all came from Saint-Jean-de-Luz and had found their mountain climbing excursion too hot for clothes. So they went nudist for who was there to see?

A funicular railway stole up on them, and the unclothed climbers took to the bushes. Barely in time.

Passengers on the funicular were highly aroused over the unexpected spectacle and carried the tale to the gendarmerie here. The police are now beating the bushes for the bared mountaineers.

The rash alpinists had commenced the ascent in bathing costumes, according to witnesses in Saint-Jean-de-Luz. The summer sun and the prevailing popularity of nudism did away with this remnant of civilization, however, and bare birthday suits brought the Biarritz Hawkshaws to the scene.

As no naked nymphs or Nimrods have been spied coming down the mountain side, it is thought that these bashed Adams and Eves may still be hiding their shame among the peaks of the Pyrenees.

According to the police, nothing worse than fines and jail sentences await these outragers of public decency if they are apprehended.

The Frenchman is getting to be as fine a sailor as those the British coast can boast of, if one can judge by the number of elegant yachts to be seen in the fashionable harbor of Deauville and the number of victories carried off by French yachting circles in the past few years.

"Any fool can drive an automobile," says Georges Duhamel in his recent book on the United States, but this does not apply to cruising a fine boat on the sea. One needs training, a certain education and knowledge of the sea, love of the water and silence.

And then, perhaps most important of all, there is the question of money, especially when one is thinking of yachts such as belong to the rich "mondains" who visit this fashionable resort.

Most important of French "sailors" is perhaps Louis Breguet, of airplane fame, and five sons, all yachtsmen. Monsieur Breguet is the only Frenchman who owns a "twelve-metre," "La Doris," elegant and comfortable as a palace hotel. M. Jacques Baudrier, Notary, is France's oldest yachtsman and then there is M. Le Mire who owns "Tantit" and Monsieur Pasquier and Colas.

Police Break Up Anderson Dives

Wreck Six Alleged Gambling And Liquor Selling Joints

(International News Service)
ANDERSON, Ind., Aug. 22.—Chief of police Alvin Riggs made a personal inspection today of the six alleged gambling and liquor establishments which his men wrecked yesterday with axes and sledge-hammers and reported that all were closed up.

"Apparently they've realized we mean to run them out of business here," the chief said. "If they open up again we'll go in and smash 'em up again."

The drastic raids on the alleged dives were ordered by Mayor J. H. Mellett. He is the brother of Don R. Mellett, the crusading editor of the former Canton, Ohio, News, who was assassinated for his attempt to clean up Canton.

"I promised the people of Anderson when I ran for mayor that I would clean up the city," Mayor Mellett explained. "I am going to do it one way or another."

About 2,000 persons cheered the police squads on as they wielded sledge hammers and axes.

Post Office Here Prepares Now For Yuletide Business

The advertisement states that the trucks will be used on the average of eight hours every day during the holiday period.

Trees Also Tan From Sun Burn

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 22.—Scientists have known for a long time that trees eat, sleep, digest, freeze and strangle themselves after the manner of humans. Now comes word from the Bartlett tree research laboratories of this city to state that trees suffer from sun burn.

"Sun scald," as it is called, is caused by the direct wilting and drying out of bark tissues caused by excessive heat. Low humidity and the drying action of the wind contribute to the sunburn as well as the sun's rays.

City To Construct Morris Street Sewer

When council convened this morning at the city hall an ordinance was ordered prepared and which will provide for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Morris street between Charter and Balph avenue. Post Office Badly Baffled; Is It Hague Or Gravenhage?

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—One of the most serious problems created for the exporter, traveler, map-maker, geographer developing in recent years is the many changes in the spelling of foreign names, which cannot be settled by the dictionary or by the standard reference book.

Attention to this perplexing situation is called by Dr. Helen M. Strong, chief of the geographic division of the Department of Commerce, who daily receives many inquiries in regard to these changes.

The extensive use of foreign places and other geographical names in the correspondence and publications of the department, as well as that of private business, emphasizes the necessity for evolving a group of simple principles for governing this question of spelling, for no such principle has been marked out in the United States, according to Dr. Strong.

Because of this need, both in the department and among business men, the matter was brought to the attention of the United States Geographic Board, which appointed a committee to study the question, with S. W. Boggs, geographer of the department, as a representative from the Hydrographic Office, and Dr. Strong, as members. "This study revealed the utmost confusion as to usage in spelling foreign names, and an insistent demand for clarifying the situation in a scientific and practical manner. It was found that letters with 's' Gravenhage' at the top of and on the postmark caused trouble frequently. The name was a complete puzzle and the letters passed from hand to hand before it was discovered that this is the real name of 'The Hague,' capital of the Netherlands. Firms were in doubt whether to ship goods to 'Intanbul' or 'Constantinople'."

The American explorer seeking orders in Finland, in addressing a letter to the capital used either 'Helsinki' or 'Helsingfors,' the former being Finnish and the latter Swedish. "Finland like some other countries has a national consciousness, which favors using the Finnish name of its capital, just as other countries give preference to their own national geographic nomenclature. The psychological advantage of using the Finnish name of this city in addressing a letter to a Finnish merchant is apparent."

Dr. Strong said that a survey of magazines, newspapers, books, maps, and atlases revealed lack of uniformity in spelling foreign geographical names. She added:

"One found Jugoslavia or Yugoslavia, Cape Town or Capetown, Tokio or Tokyo, Soerabaya or Soerabaja. Who would suspect that 'Neumarket' is the name of a town in Poland, or that your railroad ticket marked 'Flordia' takes you to the city which on some maps is named 'Philippopolis'? If you are a map maker, will you engrave on your map 'Zuider Zee,' and in a well known corner of Germany will you print 'Slesia,' or 'Schlesien' or 'Silesia'?"

"In the school geography will it be 'Addis Ababa,' 'Adis Ababa,' 'Abeba,' or 'Abbeba'? 'Transfer of territory from one government to another, or the setting up of new states at the close of the World War brought about many changes in names of cities, rivers, and other geographical features. For instance, the German Lemberg became Polish Lwow. Memel is now Klaipeda. Reval is Tallinn, and it is Liepaja instead of Libau."

For the convenience of those desiring full information on the subject of spelling foreign geographical names, the Geographic section of the department of commerce has included the rules, explanatory notes, transiteration table and all other data which may be obtained on request.

Dullness In Stock Market

Week-End Profit Taking And Unsettling Factors
Are Feature

SLIGHT CHANGES
IN MOST STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Dullness and uncertainty marked the course of the stock market today as week-end profit-taking flowed into the market simultaneously with the crowding in of a number of unsettling factors. The railroad stocks slumped off in anticipation of an unfavorable showing for July net earnings, the list as a whole dipping close to the year's lowest levels. Failure to "bring the public in" has been somewhat discouraging to the big bulls, but this is as a rule one of the most inactive periods of the year.

Warner Brothers Pictures dipped to a new low at 24 1/8 in the early afternoon following reports of the filing of a suit in receivership by a small stockholder. The company's officials denied the allegation of mismanagement and the stock recovered fractionally. "Rights" have been issued to stockholders to buy the new shares at $20 each. In contrast was the strength of Radio Keith, which forged ahead to a new high on the move at 34 3/4 in heavy trading. Loews and Paramount also sold higher.

Speculative interest in U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, General Electric, American Can and other blue chips was unusually small and price changes narrow. The bears have learned from bitter experience that it is no longer profitable to "sell jam short" at every turn, and for that reason the volume of transactions in this section of the market has been declining of late.

Baltimore and Ohio led the reaction in the railroad list and at 96 1/2 was selling at the lowest price since 1926. New York Central and other highly rated rail dividend payers declined one to three points as rumors of possible dividend reduction floated through the financial district. The bears also attacked the coppers in the forenoon, but made little headway in that division of the market. Wheat, corn and cotton fluctuated through a narrow price range, with hardly sufficient momentum to stir the list out of its mid-summer doldrums. The same was true of commodities in general, which held steady in narrow trading.

A slightly improved demand was seen for the tobacco stocks, particularly the makers of cigarettes, which are now reporting excellent business. Cigs were inactive, with buying demand scared off by reports of dissension in the ranks of the producers over the old controversy of crude oil prorations.

Prime bonds held steady in narrow trading and most of the speculative issues recovered a portion of yesterday's lost ground. Call money loaned at 1 1/2 per cent in the outside market.

Protest Purchase Of Wheeling Road

Claim P. And W. Va. Railroad Is Affiliated With Pennsylvania
In Complaint

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Alleging there is an inter-system affiliation between the Pittsburgh & West Virginia and the Pennsylvania railroads, the Wheeling & Lake Erie today asked the interstate commerce commission to dismiss the application of the P. & W. Va. for authority to acquire the Wheeling and its subsidiary, Lorain & West Virginia railroad.

The railroad also suggested that it be allocated to the Chesapeake & Ohio-Nickel Plate system in the commission's general consolidation plan. The Wheeling told the commission that the principal officers of the P. & W. Va. are affiliated with coal companies which are in competition with the Wheeling's operators.

"The application of Pittsburgh & West Virginia standards of maintenance to the Wheeling's property is not in the public interest," Wheeling's counsel said. "Furthermore, the Pittsburgh & West Virginia has not made the clear and strong showing of public gain required by law."

Ginned 'Hulu Man' Shocks Neighbors With Interpretation

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Omar had a loaf of bread, a jug of wine and "Thou."

Joseph Lewandowski had a bottle of gin, a book on hula hula dancers and members of his family.

Lewandowski explained it to Judge Burke today after neighbors caused his arrest for one thing and another. Neighbors said they saw him through the window; that he drank and read some more. The time came when the bottle became empty. By this time Lewandowski had fully entered the spirit of the book on the lovely dancers and discarded all restraint, and began interpreting the art of the South Seas.

Judge Burke placed him on probation for a year and told him to avoid gin and travel literature.

Mme. Schumann-Heink Nears "Happy Age"

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 22.—Retirement is the last thought in the mind of Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, sixty-nine year old prima donna, who declared on her visit here that she is about to enter the "happy age" of her career.

With radio and talking pictures offering her a more effective means of reaching large numbers of people than ever before, Mme. Schumann-Heink believes that retirement is out of the question—for the next decade at least.

"My career is over, the career of singing in the opera houses of the world, perhaps," Mme. Schumann-Heink declared. "But this is the beginning of my happy age, singing for the talkies," the famous contralto added.

Find Remains Of Prehistoric Animal

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 22.—Bones taken from an excavation for a bridge abutment near Waynesburg, Stark county, O., recently are believed by Dr. J. E. Hyde, professor of geology at Western Reserve university, here, to be the remains of a small mammoth, an animal which roamed Ohio 50,000 years ago.

The geologist said the bones appeared to be those of a small mammoth which probably had wandered away from the herd and caught in quicksand shortly before the end of the glacial period 50,000 years ago. The bones were discovered in a pit of quicksand, according to Dr. Hyde.

While the bones of 50 or 60 mastodons have been found in Ohio, the Waynesburg discovery is regarded as the most important from a geological point of view, to be unearthed in the state.

Two Children Die, Third Ill, From Cholera Infantum

EASTON, Pa., Aug. 22.—Two children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ricci of Martins Creek, near here, are dead, and another is seriously ill in the Easton hospital, all victims of old fashioned cholera infantum, a disease rare, physicians say, with improvement in sanitation in recent years.

The dead children are Josephine, who would have been three years old in September, and Dante, who would have been two next month. The ill child is Arvilla, 10-months-old. An unusual feature of Josephine's illness was the presence of a deadly worm in her intestinal tract, another rare affliction, which physicians say comes from contaminated food or water which also causes cholera infantum. All the children suffered the same symptoms, of intestinal trouble followed by convulsions.

CHICAGO, Ill., Aug. 22.—If your child is backward in school, give him plenty of Vitamin B.

This was the advice given recently by Siegfried Maurer, M. D., and Loh Sen Tsai, Ph. D., following a series of pathological and psychological experiments made at the University of Chicago.

Vitamin B is necessary to the development of learning ability, they claim. Making tests upon white rats, Tsai and Maurer observed that rats fed on foods containing Vitamin B showed a marked improvement in intelligence over those deprived of that quality. The experimenters plan to try research upon human beings soon.

Average Daily Cost Of Motor Tour For Two From $6.50 Up

New Castle Motor Club Reveals
Summary Of Vacation
Trip Expenses

Motor tourists can now tell with approximate accuracy how much a projected tour is going to cost them, according to R. W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor Club which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Bolsinger said that the local Club had received from the National Touring Bureau of the American Automobile Association a summary of actual costs that would prove helpful in making a budget for the vacation a-wheel. Says the A. A. A. digest:

"The average cost per day, for two persons stopping at a hotel is: room, $6.00, meals $5.50; tips 50 cents; car storage, $1.00 and gas and oil $3.00.

"Two persons stopping at a tourist home can cut the cost to $10.50 per day by paying $5.00 for a room, $4.50 for meals and eliminating tips and car storage. The cost of gas and oil remains the same.

"In the wayside camp, two persons can secure accommodations for $1.50. With an allowance of from $2.00 to $4.00 for meals, and eliminating tips and car storage, the average daily cost can be lowered to from $8.50 to $8.50 per day.

"These figures are based on an average party of two and on the type of accommodation selected. Even within these categories there will be differences, but the figures based as they are on selected experience in various parts of the country, hold generally true. They make no allowance for purchases outside necessities or for amusements. For this reason, the motorist should allow himself a margin and use the figures as a minimum, after he has decided on the places he will patronize overnight and the time he intends to be on the road."

Who Have Died Prior
To January 1, 1930

Thirty-five death claims have been handled since April 1, 1930, Secretary Orville Potter of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, stated today, the majority of these claims being in cases of veterans who died prior to January 1, 1930. Only eight were of veterans who have died this year.

Of the cases handled, 17 were for Civil War veterans, 14 for World War vets and four for Spanish War vets.

Beneficiaries of veterans are entitled to the sum of $107 for burial expenses, proving the veteran did not leave an estate in excess of $1,000 or the funeral expenses did not exceed $400.

In addition, the state through the county commissioners, pays $75 for funeral expenses of veterans who die under similar circumstances, and allow the sum of $50 for a grave marker. Headstones for veterans graves can also be procured through the War Department of the U. S.

It appears that a good way to break a drought is to assemble governors in a drought conference.—The Omaha World-Herald.

May Order Tunnel On Perry Highway

SHARON, Pa., Aug. 22.—Tunneling under the tracks of the Bessemer railroad where the Perry highway crosses that road, is an almost certain order of the Public Service Commission before whom a hearing was recently held.

The petition was brought by the State Highway Department. That tunnel will be 20 feet in width. Survey of the ground was made today by County Engineer F. P. Graham.

The county and railroad are sharing in the property damage cost. The improvement, it is estimated, will cost $200,000.

What price do you pay for GASOLINE?

● Are you one of those who say "I won't use Ethyl Gasoline because I can't see the extra price?"

● Then consider this: What is the price you actually pay for running your motor on ordinary fuel?

● If you investigate, you'll find that you are paying as much or more for ordinary gasoline as it would cost you to use Pennzoil Ethyl. That's because Pennzoil Ethyl gives you greater mileage. You don't have to buy it so often.

● Use Pennzoil Ethyl and avoid gummy deposits, clogged screens or carburetors. That's because the base gasoline is a clean gasoline, absolutely free from impurities. Pennzoil Ethyl eliminates frequent valve-grindings and carbon-removals. All part of the price you pay for using ordinary gasoline.

● In other words, Pennzoil Ethyl actually saves you money! Is there any reason, then, why you should go a day longer without enjoying the smooth, powerful motor performance this scientific anti-knock, gum-free gasoline will give you?

Most Violated Section Of State Motor Code Cited By Officials

What it considers the most frequently violated section of the motor vehicle code was set forth today by the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, State unit of the American Automobile Association. This is section 1021, which reads:

"No person, having control or charge of a motor vehicle, shall allow such vehicle to stand on any highway unattended, without first effectively setting the brakes thereon and stopping the motor of said vehicle, and when standing upon any grade, without turning the front wheels of such vehicle to the curb or side of the highway."

A Statewide survey of traffic violations led to the spotlight being turned on Section 1021, according to S. Edward Gable, president of the Federation. "Police blotters and other records do not bear out this conclusion," he said, "because arrests are seldom made for violations of this provision of the code. Yet this section, particularly the latter part, is violated daily by nine out of every ten drivers. A checkup on car operators revealed that very few know of the wheel-setting provision which applies when a vehicle is left standing on a grade."

"This matter was brought to the attention of the Federation through serious accidents caused by vehicles left parked on street or highway without the front wheels turned to the side. Set in motion by a sudden jolt, these machines glided down the grade on which they were left standing and, in several instances, did damage to both life and property before being brought to a stop. Had the wheels been turned against the curb, even though the parking brakes were defective or not properly set, these accidents would not have occurred."

In this connection the Federation head warned drivers to guard against letting their cars in gear when parked. "By setting the brakes properly and turning the wheels against the curb or side of the highway," he said, "you are complying with the law and, at the same time, are protecting your property and that of others. Leaving the car in gear may be just as effective, but it is not required by law and every time you do this you take a chance on having the gears chipped or broken through the car being bumped by a careless driver getting into or out of a parking place next to yours. "The legislators apparently felt that brakes, set, motor stopped and, when on a grade, wheels turned to the side is the safest and most effective way of leaving an unattended car and operators should take it upon themselves to see to it that these precautions are taken in parking. Ignorance of the law excuses no one—you should know each and every requirement of the motor code if you drive a car."

SAVE 50 ACRES
SULLIVAN, Ind., Aug. 22.—The drought situation was solved here when Orlando and Horace Walker, farmers, borrowed some reconditioned firehoses from the Palestine Fire department and pumped water from the Wabash River and irrigated 50 acres of corn land. The Walkers have over 1000 acres of corn land but only the 50 that they have been able to irrigate is expected to survive.

Women Street Car Conductor Sticks To Post Since War

Mrs. Grace Cross Of Aliquippa
Only One Remaining Of Class Of Fourteen

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., Aug. 22.—Of 14 women who manned street cars here during the World War, Mrs. Grace Cross is the only one who remains in active service today.

A grandmother and head of a family of eight, Mrs. Cross has never learned to drive an automobile, but she is right at home in the operator's seat of a street car. She's never been at ease tinkering with a sewing machine, but can repair a trolley with lightning speed or turn a switch with quick precision.

Despite her ability in handling the job, Mrs. Cross still believes a woman's place is in the home and if circumstances had been different for her she says she would have devoted all her time to housekeeping.

Mrs. Cross was a widow with four young children and the only way she could manage was to find a job. The work on the street car was started as a dare.

Early in 1918 when men were in service and women stepped into their jobs, someone told Mrs. Cross about the position, but she wasn't the type for such strenuous work. The company hired her as a conductor, and she liked the work so well she learned to be a motorman. Since then she has been at the job except for one brief vacation.

Her 13 co-workers who started with her have left the field alone to Mrs. Cross. One of the former conductors left her work to study nursing and is now on the staff of the State Canine. Others resigned after the war and married.

R. H. Rich, assistant superintendent of the Woodlawn Southern Street Railway company, counts Mrs. Cross as one of his most efficient employees.

A MAN'S WORTH—

Is a by-product of his character. Must be judged by each day's performance and not by the burst of genius.

Can be estimated by his faithfulness in unimportant matters. Is best revealed when he does not know he is being watched.

Is seldom measured by the place he occupies but by the way he occupies it.

Can not be judged by the way his name gets into the headlines. Is sometimes evidenced by the way he takes his beatings.

Snake Oil

From coast to coast men and women are singing the praise of "Anti-Pain Oil"—a most powerful, penetrating, pain-relieving liniment. It will penetrate thickest sole leather in a few minutes. Mrs. B. Werner, New Orleans, La., writes: "Thanks to your wonderful penetrating oil, it relieved me of rheumatism and deep-seated cold after other remedies failed."

"I had rheumatism so bad I had to walk on crutches for nine years," says C. H. Harkins, old soldier of Minneapolis, Minn. "After three months' treatment with 'Anti-Pain Oil' I laid off my crutches and now can walk like a boy."

J. B. Moore, Pittsburgh, Pa., railroad man, says: "Anti-Pain Oil is the only liniment that ever gave me relief from rheumatism. I use it regularly after being exposed to bad weather. For rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago, stiff joints, pain in back and limbs, corns, bunions, chest colds, sore throat, 'Anti-Pain Oil' is said to be without an equal."

Harrisburg Memorial Bridge Is Dedicated

Hanford MacNider, American Minister To Canada, Pays Tribute To Pennsylvanians

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 22.—Warning against peace at the cost of national honor, Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, American minister to Canada today dedicated Harrisburg's memorial bridge with an admonition to residents of Pennsylvania to live up to the ideals of those who have died defending their country.

In a brief address he paid high tribute to the Pennsylvanians who have fought in all of America's wars. He said they have handed down a heritage of work and life to those remaining, and demanded that the present generation "carry on" as their "invisible buddies" would have them.

"There will be marching today across this great memorial bridge we are dedicating in their honor a great shadowy host," he said, "the men of Pennsylvania who went forth to create this Republic and who have gone forth in every emergency to defend and maintain it."

"As you go out through all the days ahead, there will march beside each of you one of that immortal number. He will never leave you even in death. You will but join him then in the shadowy ranks of the armies of Pennsylvania.

"There are those among us now—days who would make light of his sacrifice, who would destroy for one reason or another the national protection and leave the heritage he died to secure at the mercy of a still unsettled world. We all want peace, but not at the cost of our national honor, not at the cost of the loss of American citizenship to our sons or their sons."

"For you who are veterans and for you of the Legion this dedication has special significance beside every one of you right now there stands another man. You cannot see him, but you know who he is. You can bring him back in your mind—some lad who marched with you, fought beside you, shared with you the hardship of those dangerous days. He stands beside you now, his hand upon your shoulder. "All that he fought for and died for, he has handed to you. You can no more shirk that responsibility than you can wipe away the record of your service."

Charles River Basin Areas Not State Property

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Aug. 22.—Recent discussion at a metropolitan district commission hearing regarding basin properties brought to light that certain areas of the Charles river basin although under water for the past 22 years, were still privately owned properties.

The ownership of these submerged properties is an established fact and dates back to a colonial ordinance of 1647, which in the case of land fronting on tidal waters says:

"The proprietor of the land adjoining shall have propriety to the low-water mark where the sea doth not ebb above a hundred rods, and not more wheresoever it ebbs further."

The matter was revealed when arguments arose over the projected extension of the Boston shore of the basin by filling in a strip between the dam and the Cottage Farm bridge. It was further revealed that a large deposit of high-grade glacial gravel exists on the basin bottom in an area of land "owned" by a trust company.

This property was formerly owned by William Fish of Cambridge, who died in 1864. Previous to the erection of Memorial Drive the property extended from Main street to low water mark and included the sites now occupied by several large buildings comprising in all about 37 acres.

Since the creation of Memorial Drive the flats were separated from the property inside the drive, although title to the separated portions remained unchanged. With the closing of the basin dam, in 1908, the flats in the basin were submerged and still the titles were not affected.

During past years the trust concern has sold 386,284 cubic yards of sand and gravel taken from the submerged property, but the closing of the dam halted this work.

To bring a dredge to that position in the basin now would be a great task, the dredge having practically to be dismantled. It was found further dredging work unprofitable.

a stone quarry in Bavaria, in a section from which lithographic shales are secured.

The block of stone which concealed the fossil split directly along the skeleton, revealing a clear impression of the fins and skin. This specimen was of a comparatively young fish-lizard, being about four feet long.

According to Professor Elmer S. Riggs, associate curator of paleontology, full grown Ichthyosaurus have attained lengths of 10 feet. This prehistoric creature had a fish-like body with a tall and fins, but with a long snout similar to that of a gar pike. The jaws were lined with sharp teeth which made it easy for the fish-lizard to prey upon fish and other marine creatures.

Bo-Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Back in 1680—the year H. L. Mencken was born—New York discovered that Raymond street jail was unfit for use. The Mayor and his counselors in those days said: "Something will have to be done about it."

Time rolled its ceaseless course. A half century slid down the Greased Chute that leads to Avernus. Raymond Street jail still exists, a crumbling, nasty, grim, degenerate pile. At the City Hall today they say: "Something will have to be done about it."

DERELICTS' PARADISE
In New York, snoozing in the parks is verboten. It isn't a pretty sight to see a bunch of bums snoring away their existence in soul-clogging oblivion.

But when the weather gets very hot, the no-sleeping edict is brushed aside in favor of the denizens of Tenement Town. With the thermometer flirting around the century mark, sleep is impossible in these hell-holes.

The trouble is that when the men, women and kids from the tenements go trooping across to the parks they find the lawns pre-empted by the Weary Willys of the lodging houses.

Most of them spread newspapers to lie on. In the heat-haze of early morning they awake, stumble wearily to their feet, miserable and disheveled, to panhandle breakfasts in greasy Coffee Pots.

Not one of them ever thinks of relieving the lawn of the newspapers he's lain on all night. Suppose the scattered sheets do mar the contour of the lawns? They've finished with 'em for the time being. It's none of their funeral.

That's the sort of mental twist that chains these men to the ranks of the Derelicts.

WHAT IS GRATITUDE?
"Some years ago," said The Old Stage Manager, "a fellow came to me who was starving. Kicked out of his room. Feet on the ground. I hooked him up with a road company at $75 a week and slid him a hundred advance. He told me with tears in his eyes he'd never forget it."

"The whirligig of time reversed our positions. He's on the crest of the wave today and I'm in the trough of the sea. Got a job with a Broadway hit that'll keep him well heeled for at least two years. I went back-stage the other night and asked him for $15. Room rent. He turned me down."

I saw that The Old Stage Manager got his fifteen bucks.

He told be with tears in his eyes he'd never forget it.

As the girl says in the play: "I wonder....."

WHEN BRETHREN MEET.

No one should live beyond what he can reasonably expect to borrow. That's the Broadway motto—and in these sad days it's sent most of them scurrying far afield in search of work.

At first, digging deep and finding the last dime gone, they let it be known that they'd accept any honest toil that did not involve too much perspiration. Later, with appetites unsatisfied, they become panicky-stricken and less fussy.

Two of The Brethren met last week in an Eighth Avenue Coffee Pot frequented by The Fringe.

One of them had landed a job in a nearby power house.

"It's better than nothin'," he remarked philosophically. "And you," he added, "how are things rollin' with you?"

"Me?" said the other erstwhile thespian. "Oh, I'm doublin' in brass."

By which indirect, elusive and subany symbolism he conveyed the intelligence that he was polishing up, as porter, in an adjacent side-wheel hostelry.

CAUGHT IN THE CRASH
The Ticker Tumble last Fall routed many a Lady of Leisure out of her comfortable little "stew-dyo" and apartment hotel hide-away, prompting a daily perusal of the "Help Wanted—Female" columns.

OUT FROM UNDER
I know a woman who lost a hundred thousand bucks in the crash. Having studied Japanese flower arrangement for years, she became a Flower-Style Consultant.

She goes to your apartment, gets a line on the size of the rooms and the color scheme and once familiar with the lay-out sees that your place is equipped daily with seasonable and suitable blooms.

It's a racket, of course; but everybody's happy. You get the right kind of flowers, the florist gets the business and Milady gets her fee, plus a commission.

That's fair enough.

Rodgers Kin In Family Reunion
Thirty Descendants Assemble At Plaingrove Home For Annual Affair

Upwards of 30 descendants of Harvey and Mary Jane Rodgers gathered for their annual family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Rodgers, of Plaingrove, on Wednesday. The reunion was an all-day affair.

Sports and special music, the latter furnished by Miss Betty Foster, of Pittsburgh; Walter Rodgers, of Plaingrove, and Mrs. T. J. McFate, of New Castle, were the chief diversions of the afternoon.

New officers were elected when the balloting was held. W. S. Dickson, of Pittsburgh, was named president; Harvey Rodgers, of Plaingrove, vice president, and Mrs. Susie Rodgers McFate, of New Castle, secretary-treasurer.

Those in attendance were as follows:

Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Rodgers and son, Paul, of Marysville, Tenn.; Mrs. Margaret Boram and son of Maryville, Tenn.; Mrs. W. S. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickson and family, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Foster and daughter, Betty, of Pittsburgh; Philo Dickson, of East Palestine, O.; Mr. and Mrs. William Vincent and daughter, Hazel, and Mr. and Mrs. Llewellyn Rodgers and family, of Slippery Rock.

G. S. Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Rodgers, Montgomery Rodgers, W. Henry Rodgers, Mr. and Mrs. Don C. Burns and family, and Dr. and Mrs. T. J. McFate and family, all of New Castle, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rodgers and family, of Plaingrove.

For however often a man may receive an obligation from you, if you refuse a request, all former favors are effaced by this one denial.—Pliny the Younger.

He was accompanied home by his son Arthur, a student at the air port, who will spend a few days at his home here.

QUEEN ESTHER GIRLS

The Queen Esther Girls of the M. E. church had another jolly good time at Banner Cottage. They drove to the cottage in 3 machines and held a corn and wienner roast in the evening, and spent the last hours of daylight in toasting marshmallows. They had blankets and pillows but owing to so much laughing and talking, sleep was nearly out of the question. The girls were up with the sun and after a delicious breakfast of ham and eggs, cooked in the open, the girls returned to their homes after having a wonderful time.

The following girls were in the crowd: Misses Virginia and Grace Hoover of Masury, O., Olive Wiglin, Dorothy Bonnett, Frieda Raub, Alice Mack, Irene Park, Elizabeth Leeper. The leader, Mrs. Barlett assisted by Mrs. C. R. Bonnett accompanied the girls. They had a good protector, "Rags" the family pet dog of the Barletts.

Children
for it

Children hate to take medicine as a rule, but every child loves the taste of Castoria. And this pure vegetable preparation is just as good as it tastes; just as bland and harmless as the recipe reads. (The wrapper tells you just what Castoria contains.)

When Baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed, asleep again in a jiffy. Nothing is more valuable in diarrhea. When coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, invoke its gentle aid to cleanse and regulate a child's bowels. In colds or children's diseases, use it to keep the system from clogging. Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your child is grown. He knows it is safe for a boy in his teens. With this special children's remedy handy, you need never risk giving a boy or girl medicine meant for grown-ups. Castoria is sold in every drug store; the genuine always bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature.

Complete Road By End Of Week

Expect Quick Completion Of Maysville Ohio Line
Road

GREENVILLE, Pa., Aug. 22.—Completion of the pouring of concrete on the three-mile section of the Greenville-Ohio line road will be accomplished this week if weather and water hold out.

Scarcity of water is the biggest menace to the situation, with every effort being made to conserve it, and extract the last drops from the streams-beds. Little rivulets are dammed up each day to provide small pools from which a few gallons can be taken.

In the meantime, it was learned today that the state has started the placing of 600 tons of slag on the road between Greenville and Maysville, where the connection with the hard road will take place until the concrete stretch in Greenville is built within the next year.

The slag will be placed solidly from the borough limit over the hill, and from there to Maysville heavy patchwork will be done. Little more than 2,000 feet of concrete are left to be poured on the section from Maysville west to the Ohio line, and early in September the entire road will be open to traffic.

I have some antiques for sale. How can I determine the value of them?

There is no standard scale of values for antiques. Age, period, condition, kind of wood, carving and many other factors have bearing upon their value. Supply and demand also play a leading part in their price and sale. New York City is the leading market, but it would be impossible to have your furniture appraised by a New York dealer unless you shipped it there.

Hunter Is Shot By His Companion

James Clausel, 26, Mistaken For Groundhog By Roy
Douthett

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 22.—Shot in the neck by a hunter, who said he mistook him for a groundhog, James Clausel, 26, is in the Butler County Memorial hospital, where physicians say he may recover.

Ray Douthett, Butler man, who fired the shot, told County Detective Frank Twigton he had seen a clump of bushes disturbed by a moving figure. Douthett said he aimed his 22 rifle at the spot, waited until the bushes moved twice again, and then fired.

Screaming, Clausel leaped from the clump and staggered toward Douthett. Other hunters, companions of Douthett and Clausel, supported the injured man, while a call was sent from a nearby farm house for an ambulance.

X-ray photographs taken at the hospital revealed the bullet had passed through Clausel's left jaw and throat.

County Detective Twigton is satisfied the shooting was accidental, and it is not thought Douthett will be held.

Col. Lindbergh Will Make Flight In Fall

Trip To South America Will Be Made In Response To Many Requests

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Aug. 22—In the wake of announcement of the consolidation of the Pan-American Airways System and the New York, Rio & Buenos Aires Lines, Inc., it was reported today that Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will make a goodwill flight to South America this fall.

The flight, however, will not be made in connection with the Pan-American company, of which the colonel is technical advisor, but will be more of a personal trip in response to many requests from South American communities received since Lindbergh's 1927 trip to Central America.

The itinerary of the trip has not been prepared but was understood Lindbergh would fly down the east coast and make stops at Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires and thence flying over the Andes to Santiago and up the west coast with probable stops at Lima, Guayaquil and Bogota.

In Poret's collection for fall-winter 1930-31, dresses reminiscent of the gay nineties have long and narrow skirts, the fullness being introduced below the knees.

There are too many men for the supply of jobs, and the Farm Board doubtless will solve the problem suggesting birth control.

Female Suffrage Unknown To Animals
(International News Service)
YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., Aug. 22—Female suffrage is as unknown as the Einstein theory to the animal citizenry of this reservation. Males are always the leaders of the bear and buffalo clans, the mightiest on the reservation. The animal kingdom here is ruled like kingdoms of old by absolute might. Height evidently is what marks the ruler among the bears. In announcing his claim to leadership, a new bear rears on his hind legs and blazes a ten-inch mark in the tree trunk, as high as he can reach. If he surpasses the mark of the previous leader he takes the role of "head man" in the back.

Have Liver Examined If You Are Troubled With Skin Eruptions

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

From time immemorial people have had "liver spots" on the skin. When ever there is a skin eruption, the patient is sure to think it is due to his stomach or liver. Half the people in the world who have pimples are convinced they would clear up if they could get their livers cleaned out.

Most of these ideas have been coined by doctors. It is very difficult to prove that liver function is diseased, and most physicians are skeptical of such claims. But now Dr. Frank Smithies of Chicago, comes along with a very learned article and makes it look as if we had been wrong. The article is published in the Annals of Internal Medicine, and is called "Defective Liver Function As A Cause of Chronic Endogenous Lesions."

He says, "In the course of a general medical practice in the past nine years, there has come under my observation a group of patients affected with digestive disorders and chronic skin diseases. In all the patients the skin troubles were of long duration, and in spite of most skillful care by specialists, had become unsightly, and not rarely, deforming. Frequently enough the skin lesions were as distressing to the patients as were their dyspeptic upsets."

Most of the digestive troubles were of the kind known as "biliousness." What this means is somewhat hazy, but it usually is associated with some form of infection of the gall bladder and gall ducts in the liver.

The kinds of skin disease were very numerous—eczema, psoriasis, hives, boils, cracked, oozy skin eruptions, etc.

The method of examination of the liver was to have the patient swallow a small stomach bulb. The bulb is so small that it passes out of the stomach and lodges at the level of the outlet of the bile into the intestine. This procedure is frequently done nowadays. The bile can be sucked out through a small tube. The bile was found to be thick and infected in most of the bad skin cases.

The treatment consisted in repeatedly sucking this infected bile out through the tube. This also is frequently done lately. It is not at all difficult, nor in the least painful. Under this treatment, many skin eruptions which had lasted for as long as nine years under other treatment, cleared up promptly. One such case is detailed of a doctor's wife who had had psoriasis (a skin eruption) on the elbows, knees and neck. She had also had a "bilious," gassy type of dyspepsia for which a gallbladder operation was performed. This gave no relief. Under the medical drainage of the gallbladder through the tube, the skin disease cleared up in a short time.

It is quite possible, in view of Dr. Smithies' studies, that we will have to reconstruct our ideas of "liver spots" on the skin.

Dr. Mildred Rogers Writes From Europe

Says Tour Of Europe Is Proving Most Delightful—Flies
Over Channel

Miss Nancy Bechtel, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club of New Castle, in an interview this morning stated she has had several letters from Dr. Mildred Rogers, state president of the B. P. W., who is now in Europe representing the local club in a tour of Good Will.

In one letter, which was written from England, Dr. Rogers states they have had a delightful trip and that day were going to fly over the English channel from England to France.

Their tour has taken them to England, France, Belgium and Germany. Today they are in Lucerne and tomorrow will go to Geneva, where the climax of the trip will take place in the Geneva meeting of the Americans with the prominent business women of all Europe.

The three touring parties of the B. P. W., the Northern, which is conducted by Lena Madelin Phillips of New York; the Southern, which is conducted by Mrs. J. K. Bowman of Richmond, Va.; and the Geneva Special, conducted by Miss Charl Williams of Washington, D. C., of which Dr. Rogers and her mother are members, will gather at Geneva Saturday.

The conference at Geneva is for the purpose of organizing an international federation of the business and professional women. Leaving Geneva the party will visit Paris again and from there take a boat to Cherbourg, where they will board the S. S. Montrose of the Canadian Pacific line and arrive in Montreal on September 4.

Gravel And Coal Mined When River Dries Up

OSCEOLA, Ark., Aug. 22.—The old proverb, "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," has come true here.

With the Mississippi river for the first time in history recently "dry" near here, teams were used in hauling gravel from the river bed to build country and state roads. Dwellers along the river salvaged coal which had been dropped from barges and river boats.

The river was at its lowest stage due to the prolonged drought.

Soviets To Recall German Ambassador

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Aug. 22.—It is generally presumed in official circles that Nikolai Krestinsky, for many years Soviet ambassador to Germany, will be recalled in a few weeks so as to be able to devote all his time as First Assistant Commissar of Foreign Affairs.

It is known that Krestinsky is greatly attached to his post in Berlin and it was thought possible at first that he might hold both positions, coming to Moscow for conferences three or four times a year. He has done this in the past for meetings of the Central Executive committee and important party conferences. His successor is being discussed.

fortunate part about the accident is the fact that this is the second time in less than six months that she has had the same arm broken. Apparently the wheels of the skates locked as she was going along the sidewalk and she was thrown with terrific force to the sidewalk. The break sustained this time was very serious, both bones of the arm being broken.

County Assessors
Must All Get Books
By September 1st

Effort Will Be Made This Year
To Get Uniform Valuations In County

Assessors throughout the county are securing their books at the county commissioners office for the purpose of making the tri-ennial assessment. All assessors are expected to take out their books by September 1. Some of them, whose territory lies in the more populous district, have already started to work. Tax levies for the next three years will be based on the valuations which the assessors place on properties. An effort is being made to get a uniform assessment throughout the county, and if assessors carry out instructions to assess property at a uniform rate as compared to value this will be accomplished. In the past this has been a difficult proposition in some townships and boroughs where low valuations have been fixed regardless of instructions.

SAYS WOMEN ARE
ADOPTING FALSE
SHADOWS FOR EYES

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Eyes and eyebrows are coming in for a lot of attention they never had before. Exposed by sleeves of elbow-lengths, the feminine elbow has usurped the position of prominence formerly accorded the feminine knee. And even millinery that droops about the back and shoulders now offers no softening shadow for the eyes. Wearing off the face hats, women have been reduced to adopting synthetic eye-shadows of cosmetics.

So Mme. Helena Rubinstein, fashion-wise beauty authority of London, Paris, and New York, analyzed summer cosmetic fashions upon her return from Europe. "Roughened, knobby elbows are more conspicuous in short-sleeved frocks than in frocks with the sleeves at all," she suggested. "Massage with a good quality of tissue cream will improve the contour of the elbow and the texture of the skin. A quick treatment for the elbows may be given by rubbing into them the cream which remains on the fingers after one has massaged the face."

"The foundation of eye-beauty is eye-bath. A sterilized boris acid solution or prepared lotion, administered night and morning with an eye-cup or dropper, will remove dust particles and restore brightness and sparkle to the eyes. Before retiring fingerprint a nourishing tissue-cream about the lids. If possible during the day, relax the tiny eye-nerves by lying down and placing on the lids cotton pads saturated with a soothing astringent lotion."

"The synthetic eye-shadow, highly satisfactory substitute for the flattering hat-brim, comes in shades to match all eyes. Blue eye-cream for blue eyes, green for gray eyes, blue-green for eyes that are indistinctly blue or gray, brown or black for brown or darker eyes."

Business Women

Miss Bechtol and a number of the members of the local club are planning to attend all sessions of the conference and many more will go to the Lake for the Sunday session.

A boat ride Saturday night will feature the social side for that evening and many other interesting features have been planned by the committee making arrangements.

THE FINE ART OF FRIENDSHIP

"Brass Tacks" on the Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.—Proverbs 18:24.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

There is no finer art than the art of friendship. There is no richer possession than a steadfast friend. In the great crises of life it is generally a friend who has made us what we are for good or ill. We owe more to our friends than most of us realize.

The story of the friendship of David and Jonathan blazes the safest trail for those who would find the friendships that bring no regret. Theirs was a friendship, but spiritual, "the soul of Jonathan and Jonathan loved him as his own soul." Their friendship was founded and grounded on the bed-rock of common spiritual interests, and of ideals and sympathies that harmonized with a kindred faith. No friendship is safe that builds up on the mere superficial basis of physical attraction, financial interest or social or commercial advantage. The prodigal in the far country had friends only until he had spent all. Then "there arose a mighty famine" which was chiefly a famine of friendship. Those who would share our friendship should be made to give proper answer to the question our Lord Jesus put to the treacherous Judas, "Friend, wherefore art thou come?"

The Tests of Friendship.

Jonathan's friendship for David was sorely tried by the insane jealousy and murderous hate of his father, the wicked King Saul, who tried to poison Jonathan's love for David by reminding him that, "as long as the son of Jesse liveth upon the ground, thou shalt not be established, nor thy kingdom." But there was no room for jealousy in Jonathan's friendship. If Jehovah willed that David succeed to the throne rather than himself, Jonathan would rejoice in his friend's pre-eminence. "Love seeketh not her own," and for this very reason "doth not behave itself unseemly." Thus Jonathan's heart was torn between its duty to a father and a friend. Likewise, David's friendship gave no place to selfish ambition nor to suspicion of his friend's loyalty under trial. Each placed his life in the other's hands because each would gladly have laid down his life for the other. Though the death of Saul and Jonathan cleared the way for David's succession to the throne no one mourned more genuinely than David as he poured out his anguish in the song: "I am distressed for thee, my brother Jonathan: very pleasant has thou been to me; thy love to me was wonderful: passing the love of women."

The Ideal Friend.

Above earth's noblest friendships, such as that of David and Jonathan and Damon and Pythias shines forth the ideal friendship of Jesus Christ, "the friend of sinners." For utter unselfishness, for unfailing devotion, for tenderness and helpfulness, there is no friend like that one who says, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends." Henceforth I call you not servants, but I have called you friends. His friendship through the ages has literally made millions strong and noble and fine.

(The international uniform lesson for August 24 is I Samuel 18:1-4, 19:1-7, chapter 20, II Samuel 1:17-27, the subject being, "Jonathan and David—A Noble Friendship," and the Golden Text, Proverbs 18:24, "A man that hath friends must shew himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother.")

Water Shortage Growing More Acute In County Declares John Brinton

Scores of farmers throughout Lawrence county are hauling water, not only for their cattle, but for household use, according to John Brinton of Shenango township, whose business of installing pumps has given him a good opportunity to judge the effects of the drought.

In many instances, Mr. Brinton says that he has changed pumps from what are known as shallow wells to deep well pumps and this has enabled some of the farmers to get water.

Shallow well pumps had been installed in these wells for the reason that after they were drilled the water arose in them to a height of ten feet or more, depending on the depth of the well and the source of water supply. In some of these wells, where the water level has sunk, there is still water that can be obtained by the deep well pumps. Others, however, are dry clear to the bottom.

Mr. Brinton says that yesterday's rain will have no effect on water supply as it was all absorbed within an inch or two of the top of the ground. He estimates that it will take nearly a week's rain to soak the ground to such an extent as to replenish the wells.

In many instances the wells which have gone dry were never known to have gone dry before. In fields where cattle were accustomed to get water from small streams, the springs which fed them have dried up and all the water has to be hauled. This is no small undertaking where a farmer has a herd of dairy cows in addition to horses, sheep, pigs and other domestic animals.

Scientist Seeking Mosquito ParasiteHawaiian Also Hunting Enemies Of Sugar Pests In Malaya

HONOLULU, Aug. 22.—E. C. Pemberton, chief parasite hunter of the Hawaiian Sugar Planters' Association, is again bound on an expedition to the Orient to obtain parasites to prey on sugar pests.

He hopes to find natural enemies for the mealy-bug, grasshoppers and the borer.

At the same time he hopes to find more natural enemies for the mosquito.

On his last venture into the tropics Pemberton collected a species of cannibal mosquito in New Guinea, which is being established here.

There are a number of localities in Malaya where mosquitoes, while present, are not considered pests, which has given entomologists the idea that there must be natural enemies which keep the mosquito in check.

The sugar cane grown in that part of the world is also reported to be fairly free from the borer attack, which leads to the hope that there may be new borer parasites in Malaya which might be transplanted to Hawaii.

Pemberton also will keep his eye out for termite parasites. He will rove over much of Malaya before returning to Hawaii.

Councilmen Back From ConventionReturn From Sessions Held At York During Week

Councilmen Louis Genkinger, Stanley Treser, Clayton Reeves and Controller Phil Greer have returned from a three days convention of the League of Cities of the Third class which concluded at York, Pa., Thursday.

Two important recommendations were made to the law committee which may result in resolutions being presented to the next legislature, according to Councilman Genkinger.

One recommendation asked the law committee to present a resolution to the legislature asking that cities of the Third class be given a share of the gasoline tax for maintenance of city thoroughfares.

Another recommendation instructed the law committee to submit a resolution to the legislature to enact legislation giving cities the right to buy materials and to pave their own streets if desired.

Traffic also was discussed and various tours were made. Councilmen Genkinger stated he would make a full report to council at Monday's session.

Butler Avenue Rails RemovedWoods & Golder Complete Task In Two Days; To Be Sold

Rails of the Pittsburgh, Harmony Butler and New Castle Railway Company have been removed in Butler avenue between Paul and East Washington streets. Woods & Golder, contractors, removed the rails Tuesday and Wednesday. The rails have been placed in Paul street and will be offered by the city for sale to the highest bidder. Council expects that the sale will cover the cost of their removal.

Chains were placed around the rails and a truck yanked them out of position.

House Entered; Money Is Taken

Home of Paul B. McGuire, 2507 North Mercer street, was entered last evening during the absence of the members of the family and sometime between the hours of 8:30 and 10:30 o'clock. When a member of the household returned about 10:30 o'clock, the front door was found open and all the lights in the entrance on. Efforts to call help by telephone was found impossible, the telephone line being out of order and evidently having been tampered with. There was evidence of the place being ransacked. Ten dollars in cash taken from a dresser drawer is all that was found missing. The police were called but as the house is outside the city, the matter was referred to the county authorities.

Cyrus S. Eaton Cross ExaminedHead Of Anti-Merger Forces Still On Stand In Youngstown Suit

(International News Service) YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 22.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Generalissimo of the forces opposing the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, was placed under cross-examination by Newton D. Baker, chief of the promoter's counsel, as trial of the injunction suit against the consolidation was resumed in common pleas court here today.

Luther Day, chief of the anti-merger counsel, announced the conclusion of his direct examination of the Cleveland financier as soon as the trial opened for its 31st day. Baker immediately took up the attack of Eaton's testimony as to why he opposed the merger deal.

The first question directed by Baker was that part Eaton had in bringing about the suit but he admitted that he had cooperated with his associates, Inter-National Shares Corporation and the late Myron C. Wick Jr., who instigated the case.

Eaton replied that he had no part in bringing about the suit but he admitted that he had cooperated with his associates, Inter-National Shares Corporation and the late Myron C. Wick Jr., who instigated the case.

WILMINGTON, Del. Aug. 22.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were instituted in the chancery court here today by Ira I. Nelson, of Boston, a stockholder of Warner Brothers Pictures Inc., charging the directors of the firm with "mismanagement and fraud" and demanding that a temporary receiver be named.

Nelson who is said to be a holder of several hundred shares of the defendant firm, also asked the court for a restraining injunction to prevent the issuing of additional stock by the firm.

averred the directors "Set excessive prices" for theaters and real estate purchased and that that company was in "conspiracy with the Renwar, Inc." a holding corporation. The latter named firm, Nelson charged, bought out companies at reasonable prices and sold them to Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., at "excessive prices."

He further charged the defendant firm is heavily in debt.

Avoid Pain

Nature never intended any woman to suffer intense or prolonged periodical pain. If you do suffer, build up your general health. Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. Take it not merely to relieve pain temporarily. Take it to overcome the conditions which cause pain. 98 out of 100 women report benefit after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Mary H. Weisenbacher
960 E. Eldorado St.
Decatur, Illinois

"Two years ago I lost my baby at eight months. I suffered a great deal from pain and weakness. I wish I had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound before I did. One of the waitresses where I used to work told me about it. I took it to build me up and it helped me in every way. I am now on night work and could not keep up without the Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Golda White
L'Ac Springs, Missouri

"I used to suffer everything with cramps. Once I was in bed three weeks. I took treatments but felt no better and people told me how bad I looked. My daughter had to do the work. One day on my way for a treatment I decided to buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound instead. I had read the advertisements. The first dose I could feel touch my toes. Two bottles helped me wonderfully. I don't have cramps any more or periodical headaches. At that time I go right on with my work and I never could before. I have four children and we live on a farm, and I do my washing."

Mrs. Lula Walker
2203 Wibben Avenue
Louisville, Kentucky

"Ever since my second baby was born I have been irregular. How I suffered from female trouble. My sister told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my second bottle. I feel fine and am regular as a clock. Both married and single girls should take this medicine. It certainly will give a woman energy and strength and appetite."

Two Headed Trout Lives For 16 Months

(International News Service)
MT. SHASTI CITY, Cal., Aug. 22.—A two headed Loch Leven trout, now 16 months old, is one of the most interesting freaks at the world's largest fish hatchery here.

The freak feeds by both heads, but its actions are guided by the right head. For many months both heads grew about the same, but lately the right head is increasing in size. Attendants believe that the fish will die when the weak head no longer is able to serve the body.

Two headed trout are not uncommon, as are other freaks among the millions of fish spawned here, but Captain H. G. Lambson, superintendent of the hatchery, says that this is the first time in his experience that such a freak has lived more than 45 days.

HIRE SKUNK HUNTER
CORUNNA, Mich., Aug. 22.—Offensive odors and torn up lawns has caused the city commission here to engage a professional skunk hunter. Many residents report the black and white animals playing in their yards like so many kittens.

Peter's Adventures

HELD AS A SUSPECT
Peter disappeared around a sharp bend. Worker Ant came dawdling after. Suddenly the calm air was rent by a sharp cry.
"Help, help! The enemy are surrounding me. They are giving me no quarter. I cannot breathe! I shall be crushed! Worker Ant, save me!"
It was Peter's voice. And although she snickered as she went, good Worker Ant scuttled to the boy's rescue.
"I'm coming, young two-legs. Don't be frightened!" shrilled Worker Ant, speeding round the bend and cannoning into the crowd of insects that had surrounded Peter. Pushing her way to the boy's side, in a low voice she whispered encouragement to him.
"Don't be alarmed, boy. Lift up your head and smile! These are my people, and they will not hurt you. Believe it or not, the moment they find out who you are they will be your friends, will go out of their way to help you. To be sure, they seem a bit excited right now, but that is because they saw you before they saw me and rather feared you might be here for no good purpose."
"What do they suspect me of?" whispered Peter.
"Of stealing eggs," replied Worker Ant. Peter didn't know whether to laugh or to be indignant.
"How ridiculous! What would I want their old eggs for?"
"They are not old eggs. They are very new and fresh!" replied Worker Ant in a dignified manner. "That's what worries them. Ants set great store by their eggs, so they think you prize them also."

"Uncle Sam" Real Person; Born In 1775

(International News Service)
DENVER, Aug. 22.—"Uncle Sam" the saint, bushy-haired gentleman who so ably serves as a symbol for the United States, comes far from being the fictitious character that is John Bull, John Barleycorn or the host of other "characters" so familiar to newspaper readers.

Uncle Sam with his sparse chin whiskers and high forehead was a very real person—an individual who stamped his characteristics, both physical and mental, on the personification of the United States for more than a century.

Appropriately enough, the gentleman was really named Sam—Sam Wilson—to be exact—according to Dr. Leon C. Hills, former pastor of the Capitol Heights Presbyterian church in Denver and now in charge of the Wheeler Memorial Presbyterian church in Omaha, who remains as one of the uncle's few direct relatives.

It was but recently that Dr. Hills learned of his connection with the highly respected but comparatively unknown uncle.

His utility as an instrument of expression in the hands of cartoonists is not the only claim to fame of Sam Wilson. Born two weeks after the first shot was fired for American independence, May 4, 1775, Wilson lived 100 years and 3 days, dying May 7, 1875.

It was during the war of 1812 that Wilson, who was dubbed Uncle Sam by his colleagues, gave form to the American personality. He served as government inspector of provisions in New York during the infant country's first major conflict. It was part of Wilson's duty to stamp "U. S." on any parcel or shipment that came under his inspection. It was not long until the initials were referred to as belonging to "Uncle Sam" Wilson. The name was evidently apropos, for the personality and character of Wilson are recognizably the American trademark.

Wilson's ancestors came to the United States from Scotland a few years before his birth. Uncle Sam was a typical Yankee with a bony frame, goat-like chin whiskers, while his personality was as typical as his features, for in it were mingled Scotch thrift and the practical common sense native to New England.

After the close of the war of 1812 Wilson moved from New York to Pennsylvania and later to Ohio. Another move brought him to Merriam, Ind., where he died and was buried.
In 1928, 43 years after Wilson's death, the congress of the United States passed a resolution providing for the erection of a monument in honor of Uncle Sam in Merriam. The monument will be placed at the site of national historical significance.
"Sam Wilson is the typical American being, patriotic, practical and religious," according to Dr. Hills.

Farmers Come To Aid Of Victim Of Fire

(International News Service)
MEADERSBORO, N. H., Aug. 22.—The spirit of old New England still exists.

Last April, the entire farm of John Gray and his family was swept by a mysterious fire resulting in a near total loss. All Gray had in his possession was $2,000 fire insurance.

Townfolk hearing the plight of the Grays offered their assistance and like the Pilgrims thirty-one farmers set to work and reconstructed the Gray farm.

Gifts of lumber, livestock, farm tools and home furnishings were given the Grays and today their farm is in sound working order.

"I never supposed I had as many friends in the world," was Gray's comment.

The Farm Bureau and Rochester Grange contributed donations to the Gray fund and farmers about the county followed this with offering equal to a day's work each.

How To Keep Husband

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 22.—Rev. Cyril Clancy, a Liverpool police court missionary, gives the following 10 rules to aid women to keep their husbands:

1. If you marry him, love him.
2. After you marry him, study him.
3. If he is secretive, trust him.
4. If he is sad, cheer him.
5. When he is talkative, listen to him.
6. If he is jealous, cure him.
7. If he cares naught for pleasure, coax him.
8. If he favors society, accompany him.
9. When he desires a kiss, give it to him.
10. Let him think you understand him—but never let him think you manage him.

Prince Of Wales Tells Favorite Golfing Jokes

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The Prince of Wales told the best golfing stories he knows at the dinner of the Lucifer Golfing Society.

"I once made so bold," said the Prince, "as to say that when you are too old to play golf, you had better die."

"I know some very good golf stories, but I do not think I can tell them here."

There was loud laughter as the Prince proceeded to disprove his own statement.

A small boy, the Prince related, witnessed an accident and was put on the witness stand.

The judge asked him: "Do you know the nature of an oath?"

"Good Heavens, Judge," said the boy, "don't I caddy for you?"

"Then to illustrate the great concentration necessary in golf there was a very rare occasion when an enthusiastic golfer arrived home in time for dinner."

"He sat down to dinner with his wife and his son and his wife said, 'Willie, tell me he caddied for you today.'"

"Dear me," said the golfer, "I thought I had seen that boy somewhere before."

"Then there is another," added the Prince, "which I think is the funniest."

"It is about the golfer and the man who was not a golfer who was very bored as he walked across the course. Suddenly there was a shout of 'Fore' and then there was a hum in the distance which resolved itself into 'for he was a jolly good fellow.'"

Doctor Denies Cocktail Stimulates Appetite

Merely Aid To Conversation,
London Physician
Says

LONDON, Aug. 22.—The cheerful theory that a cocktail is good for the appetite has come in for a vigorous shaking at the hands of Dr. H. M. Vernon, an investigator for the industrial health research board.

"In my opinion the cocktail habit is a very bad one indeed," declared Dr. Vernon testifying before the licensing commission. "The explanation for its popularity seems to be that people are shy when they first come together, and cocktails cause them to become less shy, to listen them up and to start conversation. There is also a theory that a cocktail is good for the appetite."

As an actual fact, however, the highly alcoholic cocktail is more likely to paralyze than stimulate the average appetite.

Lightship Is Replaced After 74 Years' Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A weather-beaten veteran of three-quarters of a century of safely guiding thousands of ocean liners into port, Lightship No. 1 has been retired from the Lighthouse Service.

With no motive power but sails, this little 103 foot vessel constructed entirely of wood, spent 37 years showing the way to ocean-going steamships off Nantucket Shoals, the most exposed but important station in the Lighthouse Service.

After breaking her moorings twice in 1892 during the violent storms No. 1 was replaced by a propeller-driven ship and sent to duty at Savannah Harbor, where she served for 37 years.

Lightship No. 1 has been replaced at Savannah by No. 94 a steel vessel built in 1911 which has been serving at Frying Pan Shoals, N. C. A new ship has taken over Frying Pan Shoals.

Heat Of Sun Hatches Turkey Egg

(International News Service)

During the recent hot wave spell, a hen turkey belonging to the flock on the Fred Austin farm, near here, left her nest of eggs, he said, because of the intense heat.

Ten days later with the heat wave abated—are you ready for it?—one of the eggs hatched and out from the motherless nest, stepped a perfectly normal turkey.

The rays from the sun which kept the mercury above 90 together with a couple of light showers did the work of the heat-disturbed hen.

PAINT AND VARNISH STAINS
Paint stains are common when days are warm. These may be removed by sponging with carbon tetrachloride and washing it later in a heavy soap suds.

If the stain is of varnish, sponge the material with denatured alcohol and then wash.

No "Undress" Fads For Men In Havana

(International News Service) HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 22.—The Bronx may strip down to its shirt sleeves on these torrid nights and Chicago down to its bullet-proof vest but Havana is meeting Old Sol half way, properly coated.

Those days down here when your butcher hacked off a chunk of meat in his undershirt and street peddlers warbled their various theme songs in a comfortable state of semi-undress are as dead as the mustache cup which hasn't decorated a table since the early part of the century.

Nowadays Havana can boast of being one of the best dressed cities in the world or, at least the most-dressed, for Cuban law has at last put the coat on an equal footing with pants.

Havana not long ago tired of the "coatless" fad and promptly passed an ordinance making it compulsory to wear a coat in public. Since that time everybody wears a jacket, outside of the home—excepting, of course, American tourists who do pretty much as they please.

Keep Alive Tenderness By Kissing

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

What the world needs most today is more affection, more tenderness in homes and families by loved ones toward one another. This does not mean necessarily an increase in caressing, although a little more of it, particularly between parents, might reduce the rate of drifting by the modern home.

On kissing babies, what a lot of silliness has been said and written in relation to putting the child to sleep. I should like to see the men and women of today all lined up in two groups, in one group all whose mothers had kissed them in infancy, in the other those whose mothers hadn't. You and I are in the former group, with no reflection on our morals nor the morals of our mothers.

Go on and kiss the baby, mother; just avoid his lips lest you kill him. Even though your big face thrusts off from him the light, and your rough and rugged arms, when you caress him, cramp his bones and muscles and hamper his free movements, he can stand it for your sake. You need it more than he does. But when you do kiss and cuddle him don't condemn yourself with doing something bad.

When you kiss the baby you help keep alive your tenderness and your affection until they are able to express themselves later in a way far more acceptable and useful to the child.

If, as the infant grows, and unfolds mentally and emotionally, you study him and understand him, often put yourself through your imagination in his place, see a little as he sees, think a little as he thinks, and feel a little as he feels, your expression of affections more and more is going to be through your sympathetic smiles and tender tones.

No kisses nor caresses ever can so perfectly reveal our love for any one as can our voice. Not when we are on guard, nor when we think we ought to show affection do we prove it must, but rather at those moments when we are least aware of how we feel.

You and I know how easy it is to take our loved ones for granted hour by hour as we live with them. We annoy them, and let ourselves in turn be annoyed. Our voices then betray our feelings. We can, from habit, go through the performances which are supposed to reveal affection with none present.

The trouble is that there may grow in us the habit of speaking roughly or in tones suggesting strain. How easy it is to put the wine into our speech. Some parents ordinarily speak to each other or to their children as if they were cross. No amount of hugs or kisses can offset the ill effects of such habits.

Let us cultivate the habit of speaking softly, tenderly. Then maybe we more frequently will feel that way.

SAYS LONG LIFE DEPENDS UPON BETTER MINDS

Forces Of Evolution Are Still At Work Improving Mankind

(International News Service)

BERKLEY, Cal., Aug. 22.—"To a degree unparalleled in previous ages, expectation of long life has come to depend upon better endowment of brains."

This is the assertion of Professor S. J. Holmes, head of the University of California department of zoology, and an international authority on eugenics.

Forces of evolution are still at work improving mankind, he declares, despite the decline of the birth rate among educated classes and the preservation of congenitally unhealthy individuals by medical science.

He seeks to allay fears of those who believe mankind has protected itself from evolutionary processes.

Among families of lower intelligence, he contends, the number of children is at present multiplying; forces but they only await the equalizing of births to become a potent factor in raising the mental level of humanity.

Dr. Holmes, who has just returned from Europe where he delivered the Galton lecture in London, has embodied his ideas in an article for the English eugenics review.

"The great mass of dull-minded human beings who are incapable of acquiring more than the mere rudiments of education and are unable to succeed in occupations requiring skill or executive ability are forced into the ranks of unskilled and poorly paid labor," he said.

"They are compelled to live on relatively poor food and insanitary homes; and they suffer from inadequate medical assistance when they are ill. Consequently their mortality is high."

(International News Service)

POINT PLEASANT, N. J., Aug. 22.—A yachting cap similar to that worn by Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher who disappeared from the Saab, his yacht, off Scotland Light earlier in the week, was found ten miles east of Point Pleasant Thursday by two fishermen. It was floating on the ocean.

Plane Crashes; Pilot Is Injured

(International News Service)

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 22.—Throwing his plane into a steep bank, as he took off after refueling at the local airport Thursday afternoon, Ben Gross, of 272 37th street, Brooklyn, N. Y., crashed his airplane from an altitude of 200 feet and was seriously injured.

Gross was enroute to Altoona, Pa., to visit an aunt. He landed at the Huntingdon airport, refueled and took off.

His ship, an old type wooden, French one-seater, banked steeply and as Gross attempted to pull it up, the plane nosed over and dived for the ground.

The plane was demolished in the crash.

Gross was hurried to the Huntingdon Memorial hospital where doctors said he had received fractures of the leg, jaw and nose and possible internal injuries. His condition is said to be serious.

USE OILCLOTHS

The colorful oilcloths have so many uses. A low chest lined and covered with a modernist patterned oilcloth, particularly practical for the drawers used to hold rubbers and galoshes, can be easily wiped out.

Sheets, tablecloths and napkins will iron much easier and the salvage edge will not stretch unevenly if when wringing these articles you gather the salvage edges in your hand and wring them in that position.

Glimpses Of Nature

By Owen Penfield Fox.

"There has been a scarcity of Red-Headed wood peckers this summer. Every day I have listened for the rapping sound, and it's shrill cry as the wood pecker wings away in flight. It was the sixth day of August that I saw the first this season. Can it be that this bird is becoming a target for pistol shooters."

"If you and I do not protect our song birds, it will only be a short time until they will be seen only in museums."

"While sitting neath the shade of a big leafed oak tree in a thickly wooded section, enjoying the cool and freshness that only such a place of refuge on a hot day. I soon noticed I was not alone in this delightful spot. "I saw not far from me many Golden Finch, there were quite a number of them. Some would leave in short dipping flights uttering a call sounding something like Touch-me-not, touch-me-not, touch-me-not, but would soon return to join the others. So curious to see what was attracting these black capped birds of the yellow bodies and black wings I moved up closer, and found they were feeding on mint that had gone to seed. The stalks were about two feet high and carried a mass of little brown seed that grew like a plume at the top. This was a discovery to me as it was the first time I knew a bird to feed on this plant.

"When interested in bird life one sees many strange antics, such as a pair of blue birds trying to build in a Wren house. Then after several attempts to enter failed flew away. The house was then fixed to accommodate them and on their return they just sat on a twig in front chattering to each other finally flying away, without once more attempting to enter.

"I have always noted that, the discovery of a Humming Bird in the garden, always calls the house hold into quick action, every one wanting to see it. But what a treat to see a flock of fifty hummers at one time. This is rare, never have I had the good fortune to witness such a sight, but Senator George Weinberger who specializes in Hybrids related to me that he saw them as they winged about hunting insects and sipping nectar.

"I have heard many stories of Bird Killing Cats and have seen the results of their work, but it was this summer that I seen the real savagness that such a cat possess. A short distance from my home a pair of doves nested.

"They wooed and cooed each day I saw them, feed their young. Then one morning as I was leaving home I saw the mother dove she was quite excited. Knowing by her actions that her young was about, I looked and saw the young dove trying to fly. In flying it got caught between a tree and steps reaching for the bird, a cat which had been stalking it sprang striking my hand. The cat made two attempts to get the dove striking and spitting with rage. It was quite an exciting few minutes I had saving that birds life. This cat no doubt killed other young doves as the parent doves raise three broods of young each summer, consisting of two or three at each hatching. Doves lay many more eggs than are hatched as their eggs fall from a flat nest consisting of a few twigs.

"In one of my recent walks I saw numerous tree sparrows, bringing visions of winter time. It is in the winter that you see these birds as they hold them selves erect, running over the frozen ground. This bird comes to us from British America and chases away much of winter's bleakness, with its happy twitterings. The tree sparrow is a dweller of the bush. Seldom does it frequent trees.

"The worst forest fires occur in October, until the hard rains of fall come there is great danger of forest, and brush fires, be careful of that fire in the open. Watch that cigarette. It not only starts fire that takes the life of Game, but Human life as well. "So be careful when in the woods.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

COUNTY BOYS ATTEND

Six Lawrence county boys attended the Annual Club Week at the Pennsylvania State College, August 16 to 19. Two teams from this county participated in livestock and poultry judging contests conducted during week. Ernest Brittain, Theodore Carr and Frank Hecanson judged in the dairy contest while Edwin Duff, William Brittain and Gaylord Stoughton were judging in the swine classes. William Brittain placed as the fifth individual of all contestants in swine judging. The Lawrence county team placed fifth among the teams competing.

Educational meetings, recreational activities, tours of the college campus, vespers, pageants, plays, and stunts were outstanding events of the week. Norman Wood, lecturer of the State Game Commission, gave an illustrated lecture on Pennsylvania wild life in the opening meeting. A health tableau, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Jones, of the dramatic department, Philadelphia Interstate Dairy Council, featured the Friday morning assembly, and that afternoon the boys and girls met with the key bankers and agricultural committee of the Pennsylvania Bankers association. Judging contests awards were made Friday evening and the group disbanded for the trip homeward early Saturday morning.

ACID SOIL KILLS DISEASE

New Jersey experiments show that fowl cholera does not exist in soil long enough to allow for spread of the disease, and that the germs of bacillary white diarrhea and fowl typhoid are killed in an acid soil. Both bacillary white diarrhea and fowl typhoid germs survived for at least 64 days in neutral soil but they were killed within eight days in acid soil. In wet soils the bacteria survived longer at more acid reactions than in dry soil, therefore a dry, acid soil about the poultry buildings should lessen the spread of both fowl typhoid and bacillary white diarrhea.

and wheat, and the possibility of a short corn crop indicate that it is possible to feed more wheat to growing and fattening swine.

Results of two feeding trials conducted recently at the Pennsylvania State College agricultural experiment station show that wheat is a very satisfactory grain feed for swine and may be fed profitably when low in price as at present.

Moldy wheat, compared to shelled corn in the spring of 1928, when hand-fed to fattening pigs weighing 110 pounds at the start of the trial, with tankage as the protein supplement, produced gains at the rate of 1.4 pounds per pig daily and required 452 pounds of feed to make 100 pounds of gain. Pigs fed corn in this comparative trial gained 1.2 pounds each daily and required 435 pounds of grain supplement to make 100 pounds of gain. Wheat produced more rapid gains than corn but required slightly more feed for 100 pounds of gain.

A comparison of wheat and corn, made in the fall of 1929, when these feeds were self-fed to fattening pigs, with fishmeal as the protein supplement, again showed the feeding value of wheat to be practically equal to that of corn. In this trial pigs averaging 103 pounds when placed on feed gained 1.79 pounds per head daily on ground wheat, while the corn-fed pigs made the exceptionally high average daily gain of 1.95 pounds per pig. To make 100 pounds of gain required 411 pounds of wheat and 13.5 pounds of fishmeal. The corn-fed lot made their gains of 379 pounds of corn and 18 pounds of fishmeal for each 100 pounds of pork produced.

Results of these trials indicate that when corn is not available or is limited in supply wheat may be used very satisfactorily when its market price is near that of corn. Wheat gives the best results when it is coarsely ground or rolled. It should not be fed whole unless soaked. It may be fed in self-feeders or in slop. Since wheat is slightly richer in protein than corn, a ration containing wheat may be balanced with less protein supplement than is required with corn, cheapening the ration slightly for this item. A protein supplement, however, should always be fed with wheat.

It will be noted that a low quality wheat was used in the trials so that better results can be expected with a better grade of grain.

COOLING MILK

Work at the Geneva Experiment Station, recently reported in Bulletin 581, indicates that milk of good flavor and low bacterial count can be produced on the dairy farm by "cooling" without stirring, provided that the water in the tank is maintained at a temperature of 40°F., that the tank is of ample capacity and kept full to the overflow, and that the milk is placed in the tank as soon as drawn.

PARIS CRIMES ARE SIMILAR TO THOSE FOUND IN AMERICA

(International News Service)
PARIS, Aug. 22—France's crime record for a day picked at random very often compares favorably with that of America. Such a day occurred when Marie Louise Bernmont, 58 year old unmarried woman who lived with her niece and servant at Bordeaux, was beaten to death while she was alone in the house. The murderer had hacked his victim with a pick ax in the garden and went away leaving all money and jewels in place.

near Quimper. Laurent Riou was a poor workman who had put aside four or five thousand francs for a rainy day. Widow Le Motine, aged 70, a neighbor, knew about it and with his son, tripped the old man and strangled him to death. They made way with the money and spent it in a night of carousal.

At the Place du Tertre, on the top of the Montmartre Hill, an old Belgian who picked up a few francs by opening taxicab doors became furious when a fare did not tip him and flung himself at his victim, injuring him seriously.

National Championship In Track And Field Gets Underway Today

Junior Events Carded Today, Seniors On Saturday, And Relay Events Monday

By DAVID J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22.—Like so many courtiers at a coronation, the aristocracy of a nation's athletic population was assembled here today, in delectable necks and half-column pants, for the three-day carnival known as the national championships in track and field. The program called for the junior championships this afternoon, the senior championships tomorrow and the deca-thon and various relay events on Monday, so that before it is all over the University of Pittsburgh cinder track will get more of a run-around than the average carousel.

The junior championships are the lottery ticket of competitive sport. You never know what you've got until after you get it. Otherwise, the established and almost standardized fields in the senior events preclude the probability of a form turn-over and practically leave the team championship at the mercy of the Illinois A. C., New York A. C., Hollywood and Los Angeles A. C. and the Newark A. C. The Olympic Club, of San Francisco, with seventeen entries, also will file a very plausible estimate before the bids are officially closed.

The events in the junior and senior championships, the program of which are identical, are as follows:
100 yard dash, 220 yard dash, 440 yard run, 880 yard run, one mile run, 120 yard high hurdles, 220 yard low hurdles, 440 yard hurdles, six mile run, three mile walk, two mile steeplechase, pole vault, high jump, broad jump, running hop, step and jump, 56-pound weight, 16-pound hammer, 16-pound shot, discus throw and javelin throw.

The deca-thon list for Monday includes the 100-metre dash, broad jump, shot-put, high jump, 400-metre run, 110-metre hurdles, discus throw, pole vault, javelin throw and 1500 metre run. The relay championships will be held at 440 yards, 880 yards, and one, two and four miles.

Heightened interest will result from the fact that the meet will pay-off with a selection of the American team that is to meet the forces of England, Canada, South Africa and other units of the United Kingdom in the international games at Chicago next week. The American sprinters, therefore, are to get another fling at Percy Williams, the Olympic champion, who has beaten them so often and mostly so easily. However, the understanding around here today is that Wykoff, the American and Intercollegiate champion at 100 yards and co-holder of the record at 2-5 seconds, will not be a starter in this meet. Wykoff was one of those who chased Williams earnestly but not very intimately at the Amsterdam Olympics in 1928 but the Californian is admittedly a greater man now than he was then.

Anyhow, Eddie Tolan, official holder of the record; Hec Dyer and other good ones are supposed to start, so the record for A. A. U. competition will not be immune to disturbance. In fact, a lot of records are liable to be wiped out like a stenographic mistake. They usually are at these meets and, with all the good ones they have around here waiting for the whistle today, there is no reason to suspect that they won't be erased this time.

Bill Tilden Will Play Lott Today

Big Bill Favored To Win As Result Of Victory Over Mangin Thursday

(International News Service)
NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 22.—Two great matches are expected here today when big Bill Tilden meets George Lott and Frank Hunter battles Wilmer Allison in the semi-final round on the Newport Casino's invitation tennis tournament.

Tilden has been installed a favorite over Lott after his decisive 6-2, 6-3, 7-5 victory over Gregory Mangin in yesterday's quarter-final round.

Victorious over Cliff Sutter and Gregory Mangin on successive days, Tilden should come through against Lott.

Picking the Hunter-Allison winner is a tough job. Frank looked good beating Van Ryn in five sets yesterday. He lost to Johnny at Rye in straight-sets.

Allison reached the semi-finals by conquering Frank Shields, in four sets. It wasn't a particularly brilliant victory, however, for Shields tired out after two strenuous days of hard tennis, played below par after the first two sets.

Cascade A. C. Team To Be Reorganized

Cascade A. C. players will meet at the Ferry residence, 1007 Williams street, for reorganization purposes at eight o'clock tonight. In addition to the regular players others who desire a tryout should be present.

We could never believe there was anything exciting in the game until we read of the golfer who threw his clubs and his caddy into the lake.—The Duluth Herald.

By Virtue Of Victory McGraw Men Out League Lead Down To Two Games

Porter's Homer In 12th For Cleveland Defeats N. Y. Yankees, 6-5

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—If you haven't anything no one comes rapping at your door for this and that and life is fairly pleasant, but the minute you become a possessor trouble starts. All summer long the Chicago Cubs were just a humble, happy family and then the Brooklyn Robins died and willed them the lead in the National League. And today the poor Bruins are the victims of much weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth. Indeed, a large percentage of the 40,000 Chicago fans stuck fingers in their ears and walked out on Sheriff Blake yesterday when the Bruin hurler imitated a zeppelin crossing the Siberian steppes and allowed the Giants so many runs they eventually clicked out a 13 to 6 victory. The Giants didn't do much of anything except take advantage of errors by the Cubs, starting the first inning by scoring six runs largely on miscues and a whacking homer by Wallie Roetiger, Giant outfielder. The McGraw-less Manhattanites are now only two games behind Chicago. While Brooklyn is only three and a half in the race, gaining half a game yesterday through the simple virtue of being idle.

A certain Mr. Porter, right fielder for the Cleveland Indians, stepped to the plate and poked out a home run to win a 12-inning battle for Cleveland from the Yankees, 6 to 5.

Al Simmons' thirtieth home run, coming in the ninth with two out and one on base, triumphed 8 to 7, for the A's over Detroit.

Sad Sam Jones gloomed it for the Browns, 5 to 2, out-pitching Rip Collins.

Burleigh Grimes allowed the Phils 11 hits but was lucky and black-boarded a win for the Cardinals, 16 to 6. The Cardinals made five double plays.

Al Thomas was good up to the eighth when he weakened to give Boston three runs. The Bo-Sox snatching it from Chicago, 4 to 2. Lisensbee gave the White Sox only five safeties but his support was ragged.

Rain idled the Robins and Reds and the Braves and Pirates.

The M. and D. baseball team walloped the Pearsons Stars by a 26-7 score. Cassella pitching for the winners allowed but five hits.

Congregationals Meet Christians

Victory For First Congregationals Will Mean 1930 Church League Title

Tonight at 6:15 o'clock on the Clifton Flats baseball field the First Congregational baseball team winners of the first half title and leaders in the second half race will clash with the fast First Christian aggregation. This game was scheduled for Thursday but was postponed on account of wet grounds.

This encounter is a sort of championship game. If the league leaders win they will be the 1930 champs of the New Castle Church League. A loss means that the Congregationals will have to battle hard to overcome the Christians, who are in second place. A win for the Christians will cut the league lead down to two games.

Seamons, star hurler for the Congregationals and of the league, will be on the rubber while White will catch. One of the largest crowd to witness a game on the Clifton Flats field is expected to watch this game.

Stribling demonstrated his speed. It takes a fast man to get in four looks before Scott is horizontal.

Tennis Tourneys Will Close Soon

Three Matches Are Played On Thursday; Finals Will Be Played On Monday

Three matches were played in the Sears, Roebuck & Company City-Wide Tennis Doubles Tournament on Thursday. Several matches were postponed on account of rain.

In the first match in the Junior's tourney, Johnson and Brown defeated Davis and McDowell by 7-5 and 6-0 scores. In the second encounter Must and Viggiano trimmed Ritchie and Porte by scores of 7-5, 6-0, and 6-1. In the final match this same team took the measure of J. Brincko and Green. As a result Must and Viggiano advance to the finals and will play on Monday afternoon at 1:30 on Johnson Court for the doubles championship. Their opponents are not known yet.

The finals in the Senior tourney will be played at the Field Club on Monday night at 6:30 p. m. Johnson and Lamoree have reached the finals.

Only clean-burning gasolines can wear the Penn-Drake emblem

Buy gasoline with confidence where you see the Penn-Drake trade-mark, the sign of the first oil well.

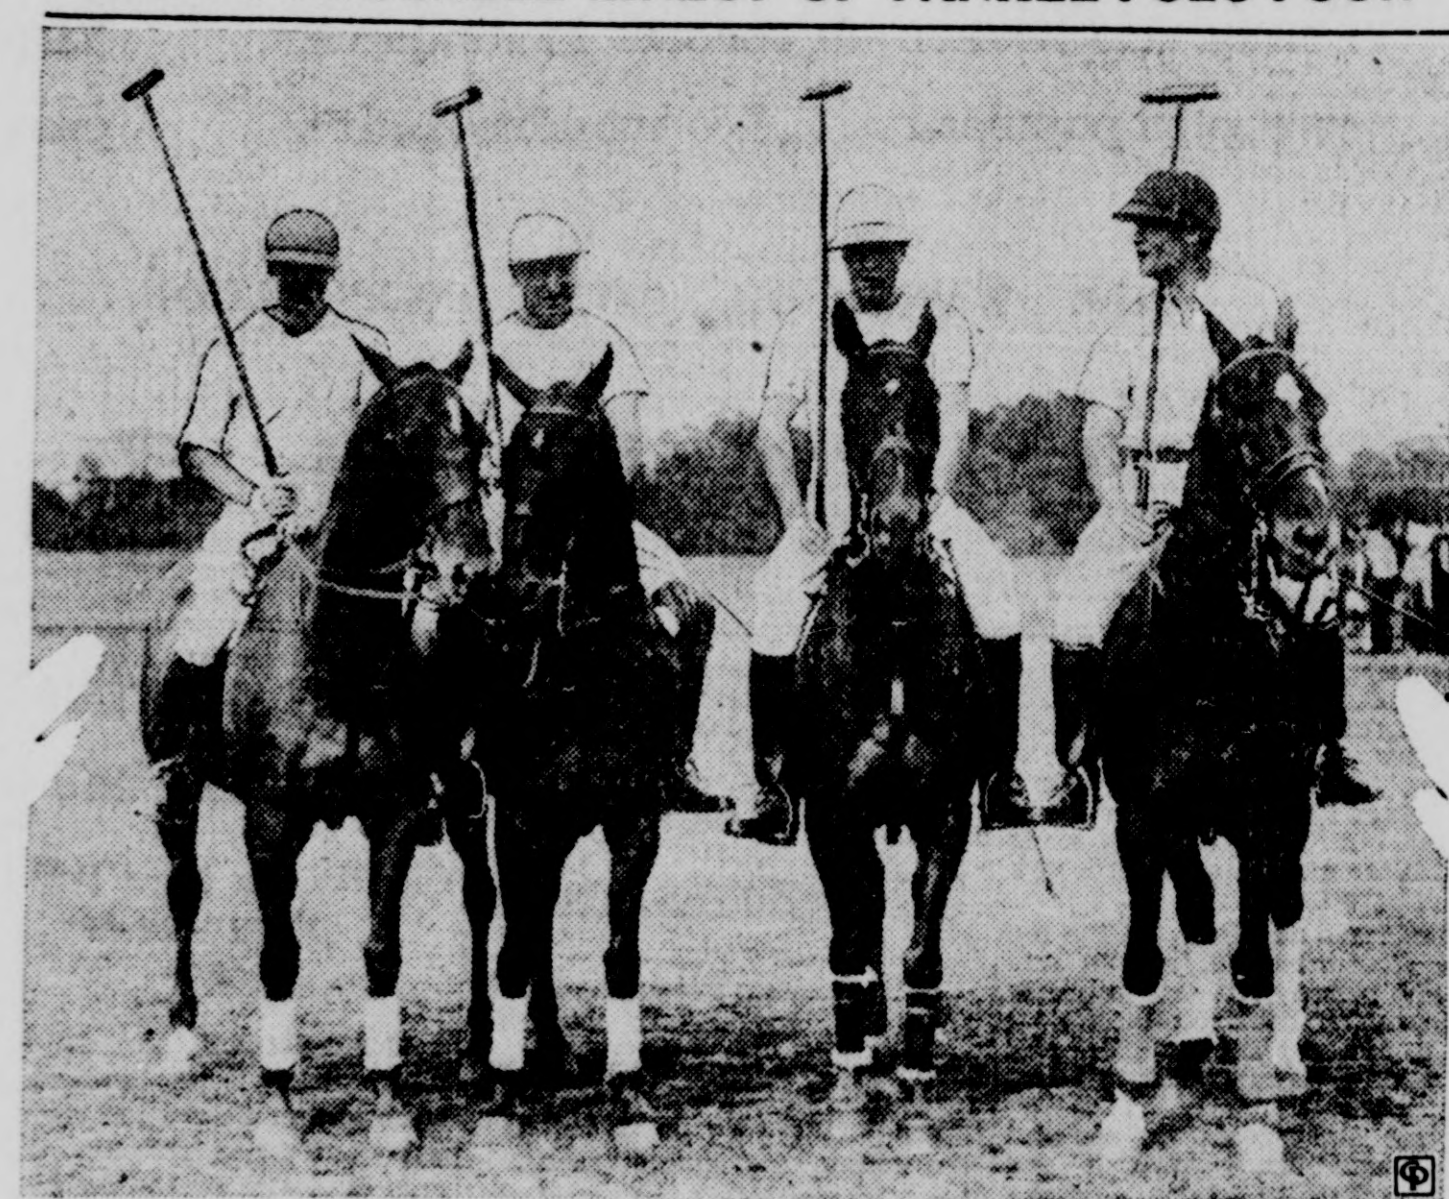

Only dependable products can wear this emblem — clean-burning gasolines, pure Pennsylvania oils and quality greases. It's the pride mark of a refiner of fifty years' standing, a refiner who will put his name only on reputable products. You're safe with the type of Penn-Drake gasoline that fits your motor — Motor gas for ordinary compression requirements, and Blue Blood and Penn-Drake Ethyl for motors that require non-detonating types of fuel.

Bridenbaugh Issues First Call For Gridders

Candidates Who Will Be Taken To Camp Are Asked To Meet At High School Monday

Will Select Group Who Will Be Given Preliminary Training Along Muddy Creek

Coach Phil H. Bridenbaugh has issued the first call to high school football candidates, the first meeting of prospective candidates for the 1930 team having been set for Monday evening in the Senior High school at 7 o'clock, when the squad which will be taken to camp will be chosen.

With only a few veterans left from last year's team, Coach Bridenbaugh is faced with the task of welding together an entire new team from green material and the boys who are taken to camp will face a stiff week of practice to get themselves in shape for the opening contest the latter part of September.

It is going to be a week of hard work for those who make the trip, but Coach Bridenbaugh believes that more than as many youths as can be accommodated at the camp will apply.

Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner has preliminary plans for the camp at Muddy Creek Falls well in hand, and will have everything in readiness for the squad when they report on September 1.

The boys have already had some preparation for the coming season, having put in several weeks of practice last spring, topped off by the night contest with Chaney high of Youngstown.

All men desirous of attending the camp are asked to report at the meeting to be held Monday evening, when the squad will be selected and instructions handed out.

Sport Ritticisms

By BILL RITT

The New York Giants have been bought again but not sold.

The Giants have been sold oftener and by more people than copies of the Saturday Evening Post.

Sales of the Giants are like weather reports. You read about 'em every day.

And—like the weather reports—they are never true.

The reason the Giants' sales reports appear on the sports page is because there is no spare space in the comic section.

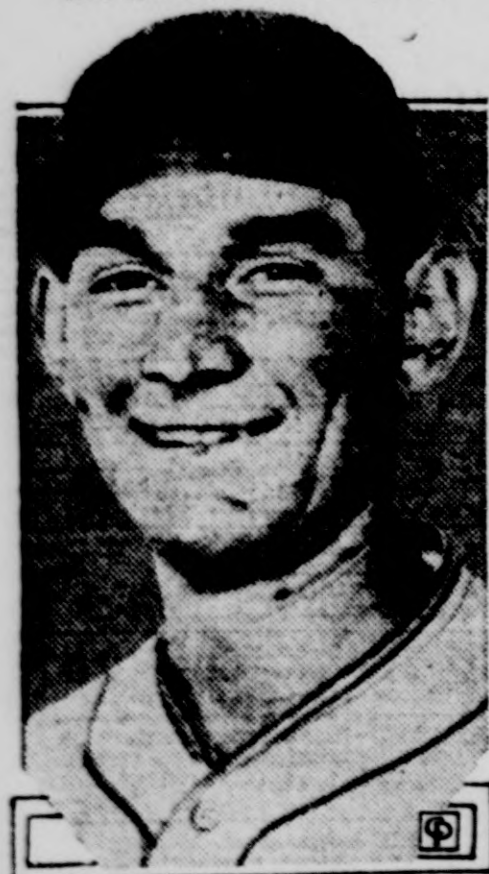

Deals for the Giants are very interesting because everybody knows all about them—that is, everybody but the club owners.

As we go to press Joe Doakes, Jr., of East Bicycle, Ark., has announced the purchase of the Giants. Only one small item holds up the deal. Joe hasn't any money.

White House spells it "drought"; the Farm Board "drouth." But they mean the same thing and it is as bad in one case as the other.—The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

But why pray for rain? Why not pray for the crops to thrive without it and keep fair weather for golf.

Fair Hair Turns Green

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 22.—Green threads among the gold is the complaint of the boy and men blonds of this town. There is a part of the Naugatuck River here which is used as the town swimming hole, into which water from various factories has poured for many years with no serious results.

Recently, however, the blonds among the swimmers noticed that their hair was turning dark and several now have green hair.

A checkup was shown that chemicals used in a factory have been the cause of the hair dyeing.

Parents of several boys are waiting to see whether their son's hair will resume its natural color.

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Writer
IF $20,000 REPRESENTS the value of the fame and good will Mrs. Helen Willis Moody has brought to her native state of California, as the will of the late United States Senator Phelan indicates, there's a lot of our sport athletes have big money coming to them.

The hitch is, of course, that these sterling athletics do not live in California but in states represented by senators who not only have given no hint of bequeathing great sums to their native sport celebrities, but probably wouldn't know these same athletes if they saw them on the street.

Bobby Jones lives in Georgia and on the basis of his golf career he must be worth millions in publicity to his state. Atlanta, Ga., is a fine city, famous for many things, including one of the world's biggest coolers.

However, Mr. Jones is not laying awake nights wondering what sums he will inherit from the senatorial gentlemen from Georgia for two reasons. 1—He isn't going to inherit any. 2—Bobby just isn't interested, a fact he proved when he firmly refused, with thanks, a house enthusiastic Atlanta tried to give him.

Other sport figures who brought much publicity to their state by their activities in recent years include Mr. Red Grange of Illinois, Mr. James J. (formerly known as Gene) Tunney of New York, Mr. Will Tilden of Pennsylvania, Miss Stella Walsh of Ohio, Miss Helene Madison of Washington, Mr. Wayne (Big) Munn of Nebraska, Mr. Walter Johnson of Kansas, Mr. Earl Sande of Idaho, Mr. Cy Leland of Texas, Mr. Horton Smith of Missouri, and a certain Man O' War of Kentucky. However, there is little hope of senatorial reward for these, also, as the senators from their states have given no indication whatever of following the Phelan plan.

Two great sport figures who would be out of luck even were bequests to athletes to become a senatorial habit are Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth.

Hardly anybody remembers the states of which these two wonderful gentlemen are natives. And it must certainly have escaped the senatorial mind. Let it come as a surprise then to the gentlemen from Colorado and Maryland, the news that in Jack and Babe, respectively, they have constituents and prospective heirs.

Auto Order Lost In Mail For 16 Years

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 22.—With a 16 year old order in his possession, a Dallas automobile distributor is attempting to deliver a carload of 1931 automobiles on an order calling for an equal number of machines of the vintage of 1914.

The order has been lost in the mails all these years, and was delivered to the addressee only after an antiquated mail car had been sent to the wrecking house, where the letter was found in some hidden cranny.

Since the time the letter was mailed the original name of the addressee had been changed, but it found its way to him nevertheless. He immediately set about getting in contact with the firm which ordered the cars, in an attempt to deliver a flock of much newer models.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Three men were killed and eleven injured, three seriously early today when dynamite which had "missed" was touched off by a drill in a water tunnel.

The dead were Earl Quick, 19; William Case, 37 and Dennis Harley 44 all of New York.

The workers were 600 feet under the ground when one of them drilled into a charge of dynamite which had not exploded or had "missed" as it is called.

No Elephants, Please

MIMICO, Canada, Aug. 22.—The keeping of camels, elephants, llamas and such animals is prohibited in the municipality, according to ruling of the civic fathers.

This is the outcome of several complaints received about animals kept on A. W. Mile's estate. The residents complained that the atmosphere was not improved by the presence of an elephant, a camel and a number of llamas and monkeys.

The Township Council visited the Miles farm and after a short tour of inspection the members returned and passed the by-law under which the keeping of any animals except horses, mules, dogs and cats is prohibited.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—A black powder bomb partially wrecked a coffee shop today rocking the loop district and the near North Side. It was the third time in the last eight months the establishment, belonging to John Gormann, has been bombed.

The blast tore away the front of the building, shattered the front windows and smashed windows in neighboring buildings for a block around. Police could find no reason for the attack.

Paris Deputies Vote By Electricity

(International News Service)

PARIS, Aug. 22.—Voting by electricity is the latest introduction in the Chamber of Deputies here. This follows a long series of verbal combats staged after each voting session in the Chamber, when numerous deputies changed their minds and voting tickets before, during, and after casting their ballots. This was discovered to waste so much valuable time that the price of an intricate new-fangled electrical machine could better be afforded. Reactionary members of the Chamber protest against the installation of this representation of the machine age, complaining that not even voting remains an individual matter any longer.

Mobilgas

THE NEWEST GASOLINE

THIS WAY to the big tent

BALLYHOO may bring you up to the big tent, but it's the performance that counts.

That's true of gasoline too. And that's why the makers of Mobiloil say simply this about Mobilgas—the newest gasoline:

"It is gasoline modernized by Vacuum's process of distillation to suit the new fuel requirements of the car you drive today . . . in anti-knock, in cleanness, in economy, in every phase of performance.

"If you switch to this newest gasoline for a week and let your car decide, the chances are better than even you will always seek a Mobilgas pump."

The price? The same as that of regular gasoline.

5-Day Air Route Links U. S. To So. America

Planes Carry 1000 Pounds Of Mail On First Flight That Spans 16 Countries

An air route that spans sixteen countries and three European colonies, bringing Buenos Aires within seven days and Rio de Janeiro within five days of Miami, Fla., was put into operation recently by the New York Rio and Buenos Aires Line, whose giant flying boats relayed 1000 pounds of mail up the coast of South America and across the islands of the Caribbean to the North American mainland.

At dawn February 19 the Rio de Janeiro, a twenty-passenger Commodore flying boat, capable of transporting 4000 pounds of mail and freight, took off from Buenos Aires on the first leg of the inaugural flight to the United States. The big, cream-tinted, red-winged plane routed north to Montevideo and Rio. Waiting at ports of call along the route were relay planes. Commodores and Sikorsky amphibians, ready to receive the mail for the next dash along the coast.

At each of the ports the mail grew heavier until it became a record load for air mail from South America to the United States. Also included in the cargo were several hundred pounds of coffee samples destined for delivery to coffee importers in New York and New Orleans. When the "Cuba," the Commodore that carried the mail on the last leg of the route, arrived in Miami from Port-au-Prince, Haiti, the cargo was transferred to a fast train and 500 pounds were delivered in New York in time to be distributed on the first city delivery of mail on Friday, February 20.

The elapsed time consumed on the flight from Santiago, Chile, to Miami was eight days, seven and one-half days from Buenos Aires and five days and fifty minutes from Rio de Janeiro. The arrival of the mail plane in Miami marks the completion of the aerial tie-up of the United States with every country in the Western Hemisphere.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Amusement Stocks In Further Advances

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Further advances in the Amusement stocks and a decline in the Railroads were the principal features of a dull and irregular market this morning. The volume of trading in the first half-hour was only 155,000 shares. The $27,000,000, decreases in brokers' loans as reported last night by the reserve board was taken as an additional evidence of the passing of stocks to stronger hands.

Baltimore and Ohio's decline to the year's lowest price at 96½ paved the way for a general reaction in the Railroad stocks, which were unsettled by reports of poor car loadings and therefore a gloomy outlook for some of the large systems in the latter part of the year. New York Central was again under pressure and sold down 2½ at 156½.

Radio Keith held its lead in the Amusement group and sold up about a point at 34½, while Warner Brothers broke through to a new low for the year at 24½, Kennecott and Nacondia, at the head of the Copper stocks, were again under pressure in the second hour, but on the whole the market was extremely dull with trading in the well-known issues at the vanishing point. Call money renewed at 2 per cent, with funds offered at 1½ per cent in the outside market.

Tablet Honors Mules That Died In Klondike

Memorial At Deadhorse Gulch To 3000 Pack Animals That Perished

The patient, tolling pack animals that lost their lives in the great Klondike gold rush some thirty years ago, have finally got a memorial. Overlooking the grimly named Deadhorse gulch, at Inspiration Point, on the White Pass Railroad, Alaska, there was dedicated recently a bronze tablet, honoring the 3000 animals that figured in the Klondike stampede. The tablet portrays a pack horse and mule on the trail.

It has been estimated that the average life of a horse or mule used in gold rush packing was five weeks. The odds were against a longer span. The cold weather, one of the greatest hazards of all concerned, was probably a new experience for the animals just as it was for the majority of miners. Great demands were made upon the animals and little care and food could be given in return. Often, just as in the Klondike rush, trails were marked by skeletons of the unfortunate animals.

No war has been complete without horses and mules. The cavalry alone accounts for the horses, while cannon, food and the indispensable water were part of the mule's job. In the War and Navy building here is another bronze tablet, dedicated this

British Give Rules On Pronunciation

Latest Recommendations For Broadcasters Nearer Usage In The U. S.

Committee's Secretary On Spoken English Discusses Some Involved Words

Further recommendations to British radio broadcasters have been made by the Advisory Committee on Spoken English. Out of a list of fifty-six pronunciations only four or five differ from ordinary American usage. This involved various concessions, along with a stated recognition that there is an American English and a British English. Most notable is the yielding on "trait," which the British have been rhyming with the name of Old Dog Tray, says the New York Times.

"America," remarks the committee's secretary, Lloyd James, "far removed from Europe, has less reverence for the native pronunciation of words that come to us from France, and it is not considered a sign of inadequate education in America to pronounce the final 't' in 'trait.' The universal study of French throughout our schools is responsible for a widespread belief in the idea that good English must be interspersed with the Frenchified form of these foreign terms."

"The advisory committee," he adds, "does not share this view, but it would be unwise to infer from the fact that the committee recommends announcements to pronounce the final 't' in 'trait' that American English is exercising serious influence upon British English."

Nevertheless the British now adopt the American version of "ski," that is, "akee," instead of the Norwegian articulation, "shee." A word, explains Mr. James, "that is written 'ski' and pronounced like 'she' added one more incongruity to the tale of English spelling discrepancies."

Los Angeles With Hard "g" It will relieve many Los Angeles citizens that at last their favored version of the city's name is regularized for British broadcasting in these sounds: "Loss Angeles, hard 'g'—" which is as near the Spanish "Anheles" as most other tongues can achieve. In approving "jewelledge" as the way to say the French word for the framework of an airplane, the committee goes somewhat further than the American custom, which is "ju-se-ly" or "fu-se-lage." When, as in this case, the committee points out, "there co-exists a French variant, the committee has to decide which of the two has come to say or has gained greater currency among educated people."

Clematis set forth by the Oxford Dictionary as "clematis" now takes for broadcasters the American, "clematis" form and "Newfoundland" is so accented as to distinguish between the country and the dog. Subsequently, "k-i-r-i-yon," instead of "carillion," tenet is never "tenet;" the plural of sarcophagus is in our lexicon sarcophagi and not sarcophagi with the soft "g." Byzantine is recorded as "By-zan-tin" with emphasis on the second syllable, or "Byzan-tin" with the accent on "Byz" in place of the new British "Byzantine."

Mr. James remarks regarding carillon, that it can "very well take its place in English without concession to its modern French pronunciation."

These recommendations, Prof. Friedenthal and Dr. Cohen-Guben, say that the reason why women talk faster and more often than males is because of physiological differences in the vocal mechanism. Their vocal machinery is more delicate than the rough male chords, and can thus work more easily. They insist that it isn't because of inherent emptiness or headiness that they talk for hours, as male jokers would have it.

You're the JUDGE

The court held against the constable. The judges reasoned thus: However negligent the town might have been, it was only liable for those who were injured as a direct result of the negligence. Here an independent agency—the prisoner—intervened. He was the immediate cause of the injury. The town, therefore, could not be held liable.

At least, so thinks Bobby Jones as he poses in Atlanta, Ga., with the three famous golf trophies he won this season, the American open, left; the British open, center, and the British amateur, right. Jones won't believe this picture is complete until he can include the American amateur cup in the photo. He'll try for that trophy at Merion, Philadelphia, in September.

thus seeming to approve the American fashion, but the committee's list recommends "carrillion," neither French, English or American. "The word 'turquoise' he finds "can be pronounced in at least seven different ways; the committee has chosen the most English of these "terkwoize. Either that or "tur-koiz" has been recognized as such in this country also.

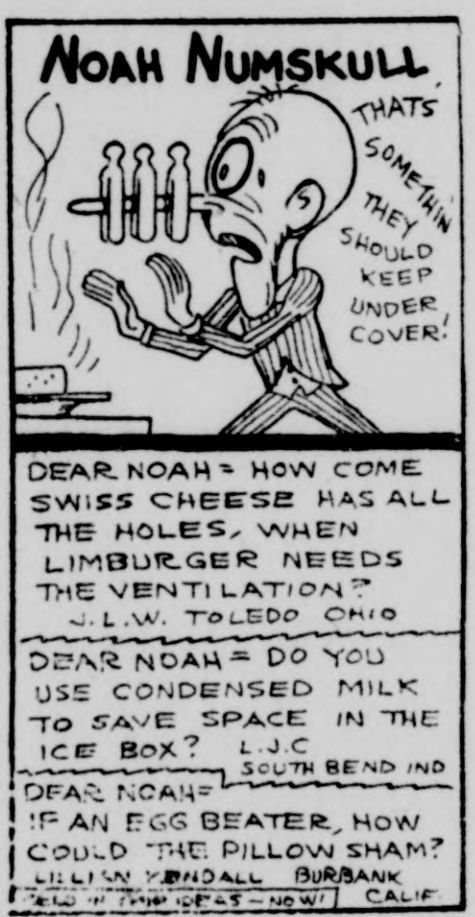

Shocks to Scholars In comment, but without recommendations, Mr. James observes that "classical scholars are shocked by the false quantities in words like "opus" which has a short "o" in classical Latin, and "ephemeral" whose Greek ancestor was written with an eta.

The committee does not condemn "opus" and "ephemeral" but expresses the view that they are pronounced by a minority, and in so doing tacitly implies that it disagrees with the attitude of mind that condemns uneducated people, who use what are called "false quantities."

These rulings have not gone unchallenged. One critic asks: "If I so far give way as to admit a soft 'g' in sarcophagus, what am I to do about its singular? Surely not 'sar-cophajus.'"

Another disputes the regularity of the soft "g" in this case. "If we must use that Latin plural, why not keep the hard 'g' of the singular, especially as it is really a Greek word? But better still, say 'sarcophaguses.' I know that omnibuses and rebuses will not help me, nor perhaps, caucuses, though they have familiarized our ears with the sound, but choruses, circuses and incubuses are surely irrefragable."

Correct this sentence: "It is a beautiful place" said the wife, as she began to unpack, "and aren't the rates reasonable?"
